

STRIKE TIMED FOR TOMORROW

Will Develop Sunday Morning Whether Newly Organized Union Can Cause a "Walk-out."

4 A. M. IS TIME FOR ANSWER

Interurban Officials Are Ignoring "Grievances" And Will Not Recognize Union.

According to the threats of the union, the Indiana interurban trainmen are timed to walk out tomorrow morning. In their demands to the traction companies, they have insisted on an answer by four o'clock Sunday morning. This time is set, it is presumed, so that no cars would be started on their trips Sunday morning if the strike were successful.

All of the I. & C. officials were in Indianapolis today and their version of the latest developments in the strike controversy could not be obtained.

Interest in the threatened strike and the attempts to organize a union centered today in the taking of the defendant's deposition, on motion of the plaintiff, in the suit of William E. Young, a Union Traction Company motorman, against Carl S. Black, a union organizer, for the recovery of an initiation fee and nominal damages. The deposition will be taken in the office of A. C. Metcalf, 817 Lemcke Building, a court reporter. It is a rather unusual proceedings for a defendant to be required to give his deposition at the plaintiff's request. The hearing of the case will be held later in Superior Court Room 4.

Traction interests said to be behind the suit hope to expose what they term the "inside" operations of the Order of Railway Employees, or the Three Stars, which is the name under which the organization is going.

Private detectives have been at work for months in looking up the origin of the union and the extent to which it has been organized in various cities. It is understood that traction company detectives will endeavor to show that the union is a union in name only and that its membership outside of Indiana can be counted on the fingers of one hand.

The plaintiff, with the assistance of the traction companies, expects to try to establish that the organizers have practiced fraud in collecting $5.50 from each candidate, in that the organization has no standing and, until the case was filed, had no officers.

Developments were few yesterday and everybody is awaiting the next move in the case, which is expected tomorrow morning, the companies having been given until 4 a. m. to reply to the union's list of grievances presented Thursday. There will be a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon of the general board of the union at Machinists' Hall, 210 North Delaware street.

Officials of the Indiana traction companies are ignoring the "grievances" of the alleged union men generally. The officials contend that they do not recognize the union of which they say they know nothing, and do not believe that it has any standing.

Chester P. Wilson, vice-president of the Interstate Public Service Company, which controls the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern line, was the only official who received the "grievances" officially.

He told the committee the matter would be referred to the board of directors of the road. It is understood that whatever organization the union has been able to effect has been chiefly on the I. C. & S. line.

ARREST FOLLOW FIGHT

Sorrell Brothers Face Assault and Battery Charges.

Charles and Jesse Sorrell were arrested this afternoon, charged with assault and battery. It is alleged that they participated in a fight last evening at the show grounds. Charles Sorrell is arrested on two charges while his brother faces one. The affidavits were filed before Squire Kratzer by Chief McAllister. It is stated that Charles Sorrell assaulted Raymond Browning and Bert West and that his brother assaulted a boy named Clayton McPherson. All of the boys live near New Salem.

OBTAINS BAIL BUT IS REARRESTED

Brickert Released Here and is Taken To Franklin to Face Similar Charge.

BOND IS PLACED AT $1,500

John R. Brickert, who was brought here yesterday shortly after noon from Fredericksburg, Va., to answer a criminal charge of obtaining goods on false pretenses, preferred by A. P. Walker, was released this morning under $1,500 bond only to be rearrested and taken to Franklin, Ind., where there is affidavit of a similar nature.

The bond was signed by Hence I. Ormes and Wm. O. Henry, both of Indianapolis. Squire Kratzer accepted the bond and Brickert was released from the jail here but was taken to Franklin by Sheriff Bebout. Brickert spent the night in the jail here. Sheriff Bebout received word from Sheriff Vandiver of Johnson county that he had a warrant for the arrest of Brickert and asked that he be brought there. The charge it is stated is the same as the one filed here.

TIRE THIEF TAKEN TO NEWCASTLE

Ed Stanley Returned There to Face Grand Larceny Charge Preferred by W. C. Bond.

ATTEMPTED TO SELL IT HERE

Ed Stanley, who was arrested yesterday afternoon when he attempted to sell an automobile tire at the City Garage, was taken to Newcastle this morning by Chief McAllister, where charges were preferred against him by W. C. Bond. Mr. Bond came here last evening and identified the tire as the one that was stolen from his machine on the night that the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus showed in Newcastle.

Stanley had two tires in his possession and Mr. Bond identified both. The other was also taken at the show grounds. This show was in Newcastle one week ago yesterday and Mr. Bond in an effort to find his property notified all the cities where the circus was showing. Stanley attempted to sell the tire in Elwood but was not successful. Chief McAllister received word of the robbery yesterday morning and notified all the garages. Stanley was grabbed when he attempted to sell it. The tire belonging to the Newcastle man was mounted on a rim. The charge against Stanley will likely be grand larceny.

CIRCUS PLEASURES 2 LARGE CROWDS

Hagenbeck-Wallace Combined Shows Give Two Creditable Performances Here.

ANIMAL ACTS ARE MISSED

Aerial, Stage and Ring Acts are Numerous—Horses Sleek and Well Trained.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace combined shows have come and gone, much to the regret of the small boys and some of the older ones who were small boys again yesterday. Both performances were very well attended.

Although the great show in a few respects did not measure up to its former appearances, in other ways it greatly excelled, and both the afternoon and evening performances were satisfactory in every respect. The aerial stage attractions were the best that have ever been seen in the city. Many of the acts were entirely new and were thrilling to the extreme. The horses of the Wallace shows are exceptionally well trained and the beautiful, sleek animals never faltered at any turn in the performance.

The monkey family contributed much to the amusement of the crowds. There were monkeys which rode bicycles with the ease of an experienced rider. Occasionally one got a hard fall, but he was soon up and on the job again.

The baboons which rode ponies were a special feature of the show, as were the trained pigs. They were both innovation in circus performances. The pigs did the stunts that trained dogs usually do in a circus. A six-pig team was driven in the opening parade. There was the usual clown pig, too.

The trained horses, always a very entertaining part of any circus, were much in evidence last evening. Two beautiful black animals, one driven by a woman and another ridden by a woman, received special attention. There was a race between a man riding a horse and a riderless one. The horse with no jockey brought up the rear, but the announcer predicted it would win. When approaching the home stretch, the riderless horse "cut across" and beat the jockey by a neck.

The circus left this morning for Anderson where it showed today. It will spend Sunday in Indianapolis and give the usual performances there Monday.

TO SUPPORT MISSIONARY

Little Flatrock Christian Church Raises Enough Money.

The Little Flatrock Christian church congregation has raised sufficient money to support a missionary in the foreign field alone and unaided. This is a consummation the congregation has long hoped for, and now that it has been attained, the congregation is being congratulated on all sides. The present minister, the Rev. A. G. Saunders, will be the missionary. He will be located at Laoag, Philippine Islands, and is to leave for that place in a few weeks.

Mrs. Jack Stonecipher was taken to Indianapolis today to undergo an operation for appendicitis at the New Methodist hospital. The operation will take place either Sunday or Monday morning.

SOLOIST FOR COUNTY FAIR

Charlotte M. Brand, Vocalist and Cornetist, Will Entertain the Audience Between Heats.

FAIR PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Many Concessions and Promises of Race Horse Drivers Are Already Secured.

W. L. King, secretary of the Rush County Fair association, announced today that he had obtained an attraction for the fair this year which is something unusual for the Rush county fair.

Miss Charlotte M. Brand, a gifted vocal and cornet soloist, will sing in the grand stand during the intermissions between races on the afternoon programs. It is possible that arrangements may be made for the Rushville concert band to play the accompaniments for some of her numbers.

Miss Brand was at Lebanon this week and scored a pronounced hit. She has been highly recommended to the Rush county fair board. She is endorsed in the most complimentary terms by ministers, metropolitan newspapers, county fair secretaries and other people who have heard her.

Secretary King and his aids have been "shaking the bushes this week to bring concessions and race horses here. They are optimistic over the prospects. They are reserving their final efforts for next week, the one preceding the Rush county fair.

Fairs will be held next week at Columbus, Connersville and Fairmount in Grant county. Rush county always gets most of the concessions, horses and exhibition stuff from Columbus, because Franklin offers very little competition. Practically all of the Connersville fair will move over to Rushville and much of the Fairmount attractions will be here. Lafayette has the only fair the same week, outside of Franklin.

Secretary King has already obtained a number of good concessions. A bull weighing 4,280 pounds, seventeen feet long and six feet and eight inches high will be on exhibition here. Secretary King has closed a contract with a big dog and pony show. Another attraction that has brought forth much favorable comment in this circuit is a motordom show. Two motorcycle riders do daring things in a large dome shaped affair.

Like all the other fairs that have been held this season in Eastern Indiana fair and racing circuits, the Elwood and Newcastle meeting this week encountered success. Good exhibits in all departments are a big racing card are delighting the fair visitors and the managements are pleased.

The greater part of the exhibits and the horses at Elwood and Newcastle will come to Rushville for the big fair to be held August 26 to 29, so that local people will be certain to see as good if not a better exhibition than at these two places. Affairs here are most encouraging and if no ill fortune befalls the association, a neat profit will result to insure a fair for next season.

Secretary W. L. King is hopeful of the best fair known to this county. He and his associates have been working faithfully and devoting much of their time to the securing of live stock, poultry, agricultural products, and other features which will add to the fair. The season is well under way and farm products are now at a stage where they will be ready for the public gaze. Early fairs have been confronted with a scarcity of exhibits in the department.

WORKS SHORT CHANGE GAG

In Muncie and Settles While Circus is Here.

A detective from Muncie came here yesterday looking for a circus man who worked the short change game when the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus played in Muncie. The man had charge of the reserve seat sale and got away with $25 which he obtained from two people. The man was located last night and when the police started for him he "beat it" for a corn field near the show grounds and escaped from the officers. One of the managers of the show settled with the detective and his agent escaped arrest. The detective settled for $50 and returned to Muncie. He came here in an automobile.

REEDVILLE BOY HAS CLOSE CALL

Takes Hold of Charged Guy Wire Near I. & C. Power House—Broken Insulator.

SLIGHT BURN ON SHOULDER

Ray Musmann, of Reedville, employed as a section man on the I. & C. traction line had a close call from death today when he came in contact with a charged guy wire near the power house in this city. A broken insulator probably caused a short circuit and charged the guy wire. Musmann took hold of the wire with both hands and was held tight. Men ran to the power house and the current was shut off. It is the opinion of men at the plant and those who saw the accident that Musmann did not get the full charge or else death would have been certain. The guy wire was charged from the current of 550 volts and not the high tension wires. He was carried to the freight house and soon revived. His right shoulder was slightly burned but his injuries will not prove serious.

NO RELIEF IS IN SIGHT YET

Weather Man Promises That it Will Remain Warm and Clear All Day Sunday.

STARCH OUT OF EVERYTHING

All the starch that man and his white collar had in them was melted out by the humid atmosphere today. The day was the most discomfeting one of the summer even though the temperature was not within eight degrees of the high mark for the summer.

The worst feature is that no relief from the excessive heat is promised. The Indiana weather bureau says that there will be no change in temperature, except in northern Indiana, where showers and a drop in temperature are expected to come this evening. Central and southern Indiana will "enjoy" the same clear skies and hot weather.

Ninety-seven degrees was the high mark today. Occasionally there was a slight breeze, but there was nothing refreshing about it.

The largest proportion of suicides in European countries is to be found in Germany.

FORESTERS GO OUT FOR PRIZE

Modern Woodmen Drill Team Believes it Will Win in Indianapolis Contest Today.

STATE LOG ROLLING IS HELD

Will Take Part in Many Contests at Fairview Park This Afternoon—Band Concerts.

A great many members of the local camp of the Modern Woodmen went to Indianapolis early today to attend the annual state log rolling which was held at Fairview park today. This is the first time a state meeting has been held in Indianapolis, and because it is so easy to reach from all parts of Indiana, it was expected the crowd would be exceptionally large.

Cedar camp of Indianapolis gave a reception to the visitors at their lodge rooms at ten o'clock this morning, after which the usual business sessions were held.

After dinner all Forester teams went to Fairview park, where competitive drills and contests were held. Rushville went up this morning with the intention of winning the prize. There was every reason to believe the local Foresters would rank high because they have an exceptionally well trained aggregation.

The Indianapolis News' Newsboys' band was on the program to give two concerts, one this afternoon and one this evening after supper. After the contests and drills this afternoon, the visiting Modern Woodmen were to hear an address by S. S. Tanner, of Illinois, a member of the national board of directors.

The competitive drills by the drill teams were to begin at 3 o'clock. There will also be a ball game between the two leading teams of the fraternal league. There will be an exhibition drill by the Eastern camp, Royal Neighbors; a nail driving contest for women; a contest for uniformed Foresters for the best exhibition in the ax manual. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

Where Shall We Go to Get It?

"Don't go! Come right here"—say the merchants of this town in today's Daily Republican.

Wonderful how these live business men anticipate your needs.

Right now they are cleaning their August stocks and planning what they shall offer you at Christmas.

The steamers and trains are bringing in your fall attire—planned long ago.

But the important part in the merchant's fall and winter plans is to start with fresh new goods.

He must sell what he has right now. That's why August is a month of unusual retail sales. Better clear shelves and a temporary loss, than capital tied up in summer merchandise.

It pays to watch the advertising every day in the year, but it will never pay you better than right now in this month of August.

The time to buy is when the other fellow is anxious to sell and never are the merchants offering better inducements than now.

PRESIDENT PINS ON LIND'S

Confident His "Personal Representative" Will Find Way to Settle Problem.

DESPITE disquieting reports to the effect that he is persona non grata with the Mexican government, with the arrival in Mexico City of John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson, the administration is steadily growing more hopeful that the Mexican tangle will be speedily solved and the possibility of armed intervention by the United States negated. On the other hand, it is freely predicted, unless the Huerta government sees the light and recognizes the fact that Mr. Lind's mission is purely one of peace, this attitude may result in the raising of the United States embargo on the exportation of arms into that republic. Many believe that this would be the quickest method of relieving a situation which hourly grows more trying. Colonel Eduardo Hay, of the Constitutionalist army, who has been in Washington urging the senate to remove this embargo, has reiterated frequently that if it was lifted the Constitutionalist forces could bring Huerta to terms within ninety days, and the military experts at Washington are prone to agree with him.

Copyright by Zimmerman.

Mr. Lind's Status.

Officially Mr. Lind, who was once governor of Minnesota and a representative in congress and later senator from that state, is described as "adviser to the embassy in the present situation." In fact he is a mediator in embryo. It is for him to impress upon the warring Mexican factions the necessity of peace and the urgent need of an immediate settlement of their differences.

Whether he can do it or not only the events of the near future will determine, and those officials in closest touch with the Mexican situation are inclined to be cautious in expressing an opinion.

Ex-Governor Lind is regarded as a strong man, capable of sizing up the situation, although it is recognized that he will find his mission exceedingly difficult, because of his unfamiliarity with Latin-Americans and the Spanish language. It has been also a matter of comment in official circles that Mr. Lind is not thoroughly familiar with past events in Mexico. He has not, as a citizen of Minnesota, been particularly interested in the Mexican situation, and he spent only three days in Washington conferring with the president and the secretary of state before leaving for Mexico City. Secretary Bryan, however, has great confidence in his ability to carry out his instructions.

The President's Policy.

It is understood in Washington that President Wilson is steadfast in his policy to end all thought of recognition of the Huerta government and all thought of intervention in Mexico. Positively the policy includes an attempt at mediation by Mr. Lind, with a view to bringing about a constitutional election of a president in Mexico; the possible retirement of Huerta and the appointment of a provisional president whom the United States can recognize as a prelude thereto, together with a suspension of hostilities pending the proposed election. The negative features of the policy of the administration were clearly indicated by the acceptance of Henry Lane Wilson's resignation as ambassador to Mexico, and the positive features are contained in the instructions given to Mr. Lind.

It seems certain that the new policy of the administration will not be acceptable to Mexico. Mr. Lind holds no office which is recognized between nations. President Huerta may decline to see him altogether, and it is plain that a grave responsibility rests upon his shoulders in speaking for the president direct among the factional representatives in Mexico. The administration tion has insisted that it should be made plain that Mr. Lind was acting entirely in an unofficial capacity in his mission to Mexico, but that he possesses most extraordinary powers in speaking for President Wilson is admitted.

HIS HOPES MEXICAN MISSION

Administration Anxious Most of All to Induce Huerta to Retire.

The latter power is said to be the only cloak he wears which might prevent the Mexican government should it resent in any particular Mr. Lind's activities in Mexico, from taking drastic action.

Complexities of New Policy.

It has been obvious for some time past that the new policy of the administration does not contemplate in any way a recognition of the Huerta government, and thus it becomes most complex by reason of the devious method employed to solve the Mexican problem. Up to this time the Huerta government has received no official recognition from the United States, which is now, in effect, asking that government to retire in the interest of permanent peace in Mexico. As previously stated, Mr. Lind has no official status and is not, in fact, a representative of the government of the United States, but of the president personally. So far as the Mexican government is concerned, it was recently stated by a member of the senate committee on foreign relations in Washington, Mr. Lind has no more standing in Mexico than any other American citizen except that conferred upon him by the president. This mingling of the official and unofficial necessarily imposes new responsibilities on all concerned which are not covered fully by law or treaty obligations.

The policy of the administration in sending ex-Governor Lind to the Mexican capital in this quasi-official fashion, is a new one, so far as this country is concerned. The nearest approach to it was the mission of James Blount of Georgia, who was sent to Hawaii in 1892 by President Cleveland as "paramount" commissioner. The result of his trip was the restoration of the monarchy in those islands. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are believed by those in touch with affairs of state in Washington to have worked out the policy over the protests of advisers in the state department who are well versed in international law. That the policy is an experiment still seems to be the opinion of Washington.

Lind's Instructions.

Officials close to the administration have asserted since Mr. Lind's departure that Mr. Lind carried to Mexico a complete plan of action, including instructions to bring the friendly advances of President Wilson to the attention of President Huerta, if possible. In addition, Mr. Lind is said to be qualified by instructions to consult generally in Mexico with a view to establishing peace and a constitutional government at the same time, and these instructions have been interpreted to mean that he may consult the Constitutionalist leaders if need be. It is believed by Washington officials that the administration has acted with due regard to recent advice received from Mexico City as to the progress of internal efforts in Mexico to bring about a peaceful solution of the difficulties there.

Members of congress who recall Mr. Lind's distinguished services in the house a few years ago look upon his selection for the delicate Mexican mission with favor. They believe Mr. Lind will make good if any one can. At the same time, they point out that, as a member of congress, Mr. Lind was extremely independent at times, even breaking with his party when its decisions did not accord with his own. Some of his former colleagues go so far as to say that he was impulsive and not always tactful in his legislative methods, but all unite in praising the honesty and integrity and complete good faith with which he entered upon and conducted the legislative contest in which he played a prominent part.

First Task Difficult.

Mr. Lind's first task now will be to ascertain the exact attitude of General Huerta and his followers concerning mediation and incidentally to express the view that the resignation of Huerta, whose name is inseparably linked with the murder of Madero, would be wise and would make a truce between the federals and the rebels possible. The attitude of Huerta has already shown this to be a difficult if not impossible task.

If he succeeds Mr. Lind will then approach the other factions in an effort to bring on an armistice and a constitutional election under the supervision of a provisional president who would be satisfactory to both sides.

What the administration wants most of all is Huerta's resignation. If this can be brought about the atmosphere will be greatly clarified. From some sources the administration has been advised that Huerta could be induced to withdraw, although to counteract this there is published an official statement from the City of Mexico that Huerta will do nothing of the kind. It is believed by the administration that

Huerta's attitude, as described in the newspapers, is likely to prove very different from that which he will assume with the personal representative of the president of the United States, who will tell him in effect that the United States wants him to get out.

Many Problems Ahead.

If Mr. Lind's mission is a success and he gets all sides to agree to a peaceful election the problem which will then confront Mexico will still be difficult. It may be necessary even, say the experts, to revise the electoral laws of Mexico and to provide new machinery for elections. The existing law is obviously designed to give those in charge of the election complete control of the machinery. Under such circumstances the election would probably prove unsatisfactory and inconclusive, with the chances great that the defeated faction would take to the field again.

In the meantime Mr. Lind, as the personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico City, will have a freedom of action that will tend to give him greater powers than those possessed by an ambassador, who would be restricted by the customs and practices of diplomacy. He will act as adviser to Mr. O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affairs at the embassy in Mexico City, until such time as the Mexican situation is straightened out, when, if the administration consents to recognize the government that succeeds Huerta's, he will probably be named, should he wish it, as our next ambassador to the southern republic.

On the other hand, by reason of the fact that he carries with him no credentials, it is more than possible that his presence in the Mexican capital may lead to a situation even more

FORMER AMBASSADOR HENRY L. WILSON. acute than the present one in the event of the Huerta government taking some action against him.

Mr. Lind's Career.

Ex-Governor Lind has had no experience in diplomacy and has not resided in a Latin-American country. He served in the house of representatives when William J. Bryan was a congressman, and his choice for the important office of mediator is credited to Mr. Bryan. During the time that he and Mr. Bryan were in congress, Mr. Lind was a Republican. He bolted the Republican party in 1896 on account of his adherence to free silver views and became a follower of Mr. Bryan. He remained in the Democratic party in the Roosevelt-Parker campaign in 1904 and the Taft-Wilson campaign in 1912.

Mr. Lind was born in Sweden fifty-nine years ago, and came to the United States when he was fourteen years old. The Lind family settled in Minnesota, and the future governor was educated in the public schools there. He taught school, studied at the University of Minnesota for a year, and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He began the practice of law in New Ulm in 1877. He was receiver of the United States land office at Tracy, Minn., from 1881 to 1885, a member of congress from 1887 to 1893, a lieutenant in the Twelfth Minnesota volunteers during the Spanish-American war, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota in 1896, and was elected governor in 1898. He was defeated for re-election in 1900 and again served as a member of congress from 1903 to 1905. His home is in Minneapolis. Mr. Lind lost his left arm in an accident when he was a young man.

ORGANIZE GOOD BOYS' PATROL

Kansas City Gang to Fight For Birds and Animals.

A boy gang has been organized in Kansas City, Mo., to wage war on all boys who kill birds or are unkind to dogs, cats or other dumb animals. It is a juvenile humane society and has taken the name "The Good Boys' patrol." The boys have adopted a severe code of discipline to govern themselves, and the violation of the rules by a member means his instant dismissal from the organization.

"No boy who swears, lies, steals, smokes, hops wagons or acts foolish can belong to our gang," one of the boys said in telling about the new organization.

Although it is a boy gang of an unusual kind, the members have plenty of spirit. If they catch a boy who has killed a bird or in any other manner shows a lack of humane impulses they resolve into a court and try him. The sentence always imposes enough punishment to reform the offender.

BANKER MISSING SO IS THE CASH

People of Roseville N. J., On the Anxious Seat.

DIRECTORS DO NOT EXPLAIN

How the Missing Secretary-Treasurer of the Roseville Trust Company Got Away With Other People's Money to the Amount of $300,000 in Six Months Is a Question Whichirate Depositors Want Explained.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 16.—To express their opinions of the directors in whom they had trusted and to devise means of protecting themselves, depositors of the Roseville Trust company, which was closed after examiners had discovered a shortage now estimated at more than $300,000, met. Their opinions reflected pretty much the sentiment of the Roseville neighborhood after a day's pondering of the proposition that Raymond E. Smith, the missing secretary and treasurer, was not the whole trust company and that something must be vitally wrong with a banking system under which everything could be wiped out in six months under the noses of the directors.

Charles C. Lurich, a member of the executive committee of the directors, counselled calmness and was promptly squelched. Depositors who had lost everything did not feel that way. Someone asked him if he were the director who is rumored to have withdrawn $14,000 from the trust company a few days ago. Mr. Lurich denied emphatically that he was. He said that he did not know that there was anything wrong, and then they asked why, as a director, he didn't know.

A committee was named to represent the depositors and to engage counsel. Many depositors admitted that they were less hopeful of getting back their money than they are of fastening responsibility on someone besides the secretary and treasurer.

Raymond E. Smith has not been heard from. William Fairlie, vice president of the trust company, declared Smith indebted to the company for at least $305,000. The rumor persists that the examination found the bank full of worthless paper. Some of this paper bore the name of William A. Schwartz of East Orange, who committed suicide Tuesday night.

NO IMMEDIATE RELIEF

Is Offered the Suffering People of Kansas From Drouth.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 16.—Kansas today entered on the thirteenth consecutive day of extreme heat.

Kansas City has had no rain for twenty-three days. Cottonwood Falls, Kan., has had no rain for forty-six days, and for thirty-three days the maximum temperature has been 100.

Topeka, on the coolest day since July 23, saw the mercury mount to 97. A dozen cities are obtaining water from outside sources.

The crop damage is estimated at $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in Kansas alone.

Nebraska, Missouri and Oklahoma reported temperatures ranging to 108 degrees.

The weather bureau predicts the spread of the heat wave and no immediate relief from drouth.

A Boy and a Gun.

New Albany, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Casper Verick was accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded by her nine-year-old son at her home, twelve miles west of this city. The boy was dragging a shotgun about the house, and as she started to take it from him the weapon was discharged, the shot striking her in the thighs and abdomen.

Maddock Heads I. R. E. A.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—The Indiana Republican Editorial association elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, William B. Maddock of Bloomfield; vice president, Fred A. Miller of South Bend; secretary, George B. Lockwood of Muncie, and treasurer, Harry J. Martin of Martinsville.

DEFENSE OUTLINES ITS CASE TO JURY
Diggs' Wife, Mother and Little Girl In Court.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—With testimony of Lola Norris and Miss Neil Barton, the Sacramento woman who was asked by Diggs to get Marsha Warrington to swear she paid her way to Reno and spent the nights there with Lola Norris, the government closed its case against Maury Diggs. The defense outlined its case, which rests mainly on the declaration that Diggs and Caminetti rushed off to Reno under the idea that they would escape prosecution by the juvenile court, and that the girls went with them willingly when the men told them they had to leave the state.

Both the mothers and wives of Diggs and Caminetti were present, as well as Diggs' little girl. They all took an eager interest in the proceedings, and the jury seemed much interested in them, particularly in the wives as they sat by their husbands.

THEN HE KILLED HIMSELF
Elwood Man Takes Own Life in Remorse For Slaying Boy.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mistaking the form of Charles Cain, eighteen years old, for that of James Collins, a man with whom he had been quarreling and whom he had threatened to kill, Charles Woolen, forty-six years old, shot and killed the boy at the home of the latter's mother. Mrs. Florence Reed, where Woolen was a boarder.

Realizing his mistake as the boy tottered to the door and fell lifeless from the porch, Woolen turned the gun upon himself, sending a bullet through his brain and dying instantly.

Woolen is said to have been angry when Collins visited the home and rushed upstairs, saying he would "fix" him. The boy hurried after him to prevent trouble and Woolen, not recognizing him in the darkness of the stairway, fired, the bullet piercing his heart. That young Cain had been prepared for trouble was shown when a gun was found in his pocket, after he was picked up from the ground where he had fallen. Woolen was a divorced man and had children living here. This is the first murder committed in Elwood in eight years.

On the Trail of Yeggmen.
South Bend, Ind., Aug. 16.—With the arrest of two men in a local hotel the South Bend police are believed to have found the trail of a gang of yeggmen who have been operating extensively in northern Indiana and southern Michigan. When taken into custody the men refused to give their names or places of residence. A large quantity of burglars' tools was found among their belongings.

Took Him to Court.
New York, Aug. 16.—For using powerful automobile searchlights which shoot light through the skirts of women passing his store on Broadway at night, John Carey, a merchant, was taken to court charged with causing a crowd to gather in the street.

CONSTABLE MET WITH FOUL PLAY
This Is the Belief of Burton's Relatives.

CONFIDENT THIS IS THE CASE

Without Any Known Motive Constable Richard Burton Disappeared From His Home in Anderson on July 25, Since Which Time Nothing Has Been Heard of Him and His Kinsfolk Believe He Has Been Slain.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 16.—Relatives of Constable Richard Burton, thirty-five years old, who disappeared from this city July 25, are firm in the belief that he has met foul play. The fact that Constable Albert Hawkins, who engaged in work much similar to that performed by Constable Burton, was murdered early last month, leads the immediate family of Burton to believe that some enemy who imagined he had been persecuted by Burton, has taken his life and probably secreted his body in some out-of-the-way place. Mrs. Burton says she is confident this is the case for the reason that her husband was never known to stay away from home at night without first notifying her of his intended absence.

July 25 Burton had completed some work laid out by Justice of the Peace George Showers at Mounds Park and, after his return to the city, called up the justice of the peace by phone and asked if there was any further work to be done that day. Later Burton was joined by his wife uptown and they spent an hour visiting moving picture shows. When Mrs. Burton was ready to go home about 9 o'clock Burton told her he had some business to attend to and would return later. Mrs. Burton went home and that was the last time she saw her husband. It is her theory that he probably was caught by some person with whom he had had trouble in his official capacity and that he has been murdered.

CARRANZA NOT BEING GIVEN CONSIDERATION

No Communication Made to Constitutionalist Leader.

Washington, Aug. 16.—No communication has been made to General Carranza, the Constitutionalist leader, says Secretary of State Bryan, to determine if he would suspend hostilities against the federals pending a constitutional convention providing one could be made by John Lind, the president's personal representative. The president's policy for Mexico, he said, does not contemplate such communication.

This announcement was taken to mean that the president intends to deal with the Huerta government alone in his efforts to bring about peace, and as a result of Mr. Bryan's statement it is believed that the success or failure of Lind's mission will be decided by what he accomplishes at Mexico City. Administration officials profess to be well satisfied with the progress Lind is making in Mexico City. The announcement that Lind had made a second visit to Minister of Foreign Affairs Gamboa was noted with approval, confirming the belief that the representative is steadily plugging away at his effort to procure a friendly consideration of the suggestions from the United States which will be communicated to Huerta either by himself or the American charge. No indications were forthcoming as to when these suggestions would be formally delivered, however.

Promises End of Black Plague.
London, Aug. 16.—Dr. Johnstone, who was entrusted by the government a year ago with the investigation of the question of venereal diseases, has submitted a long report which he concludes by saying that there is a prospect, in view of recent great discoveries, of stamping out these diseases entirely.

Preferred Death to Prison.
Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 16.—William Showaker, aged fifty, committed suicide by taking poison. He leaves a widow and two children at Indianapolis. It is said he was a paroled prisoner about to be taken back to Michigan City to complete an eight-year sentence.

Woman Killed by Horse.
Greensburg, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Frank Walker, aged thirty-five, was kicked by a horse at her home west of this city and died a few hours later. The horse's hoof struck her right temple, fracturing the skull.

Fourth Victim of Explosion.

DARING SWIMMER DROWNED

John Vachie Lost Life in Cedar Lake on a Bet.

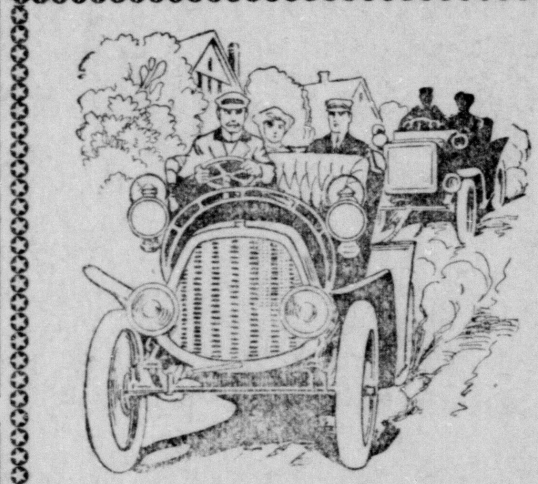

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 16.—A bet that he could swim across Cedar lake and back without getting out of the water cost John Vachie, an expert swimmer, his life. Vachie had made the out trip, a mile and a half, and was completing the last stage of the three-mile swim when he threw up his hands and disappeared. He had refused to let any boat accompany him and was drowned.

The Family Reunion.

The season of family reunions is upon us. The family reunion is a most excellent thing. It contributes much to the making of history, in the illumination it can often afford the historian on points otherwise obscure. When the widely scattered descendants of a name get together and exchange reminiscences and recollections of events, there is apt to come out of the attrition something to add to the sum of general knowledge.

It may be wondered why the family reunion often comes at a season of the year when farm work is most pressing. October would seem to be the ideal month for such reunions. But this year, as usual, they began before the end of harvest. The Williams family reunion was held some weeks ago near Bethayres, Pa., and since then the Bergeys have also foregathered. The Moyers, of whom there are said to be more than 6000 in this country; the Klines, the Carrels, the McKinstrys, and the Walters have also met and parted. But there is still to come what should be a very large meeting if all entitled to appear there should do so. It having been decided that the Longaeres, Longnakers and Longenneckers are all descended from one family root, and that the fact having been recognized in the invitations sent out, their meeting should be a large one, for many there are in this land who can take refuge under such a wide-spreading family tree.

These events are worthy of encouragement and a wider recognition than they have yet received. They foster a spirit of family pride, which, in spite of overmuch that is said and has been written to the contrary, is more often than preaching a stimulus to decent living. And there is nothing offensive, in the sense of aristocracy or attempted exclusiveness, about such meetings. They are simply the coming together of people having a common claim to an honorable name and their influence is certain to be for good. We hope to see the family reunion spirit grow, and the family reunion itself become more numerous, and at a season of the year when they can be more largely attended.

County Fair Crowds.

Once more the rolling year has brought us around to the cattle show season. It is customary for the Smart Alecks of the metropolitan press to rail at the rustic character of the people there assembled. The artist who covers "cattle show" fails of editorial commendation unless the farmers are depicted with bushy hair and superfluous whiskers, and the women are set forth with hoop skirts and floppy bonnets.

No doubt the artists who cover these events never get any nearer the scene than the golf clubs just outside the city limits. For their benefit we might inform them that you can see some pretty good styles at the modern county fair. Occasionally there are traces of whiskers, but no more so than you see on Broadway.

As for the women, how they have spruced up since fashion cuts began to circulate about the country. It takes a lot of presence to run a grange meeting, and country women oftentimes look a good deal smarter than the suffragette element you get in the women's clubs about the big cities.

As for the up-to-date country girl, there isn't a finer feminine specimen afoot. She has gone just far enough in the world to know what good clothes can do for her, and not far as to imagine that the paint brush is mightier than rosy human flesh and blood.

Editorialettes

Congressmen should not growl about the temperature. They should be accustomed to hot air.

Something to Worry About.

Out of thirty-five boy babies born at Williamstown, W. Va., since May 31, twenty-two have been named Woodrow.

It would appear that the next move would be to change the name of the town.

Fortunately for the summer girls, the bathing suits do not long remain the length that is shown in the dry goods store windows.

It may be all right to pray for rain, but it is very inconsiderate of the fellows who have a lawn to mow.

Some people would buy their ice out of town if it weren't for the temperature.

We were just wondering, that's all, how many of the women who criticize "September Morn" were ever guilty of wearing a shadow skirt.

It is not so much a question as to whether you can afford an automobile as to whether it is safe to give your creditors something tangible to levy on.

It's an old saying that the man who never takes a vacation takes one all the time, but fortunately it takes exceptions to make the rule.

A common school education, a set of dancing bows (from the hips) ability to do the turkey trot and a dress suit will get one into the exclusive set at the summer resorts.

While the newspapers are full of heat prostrations, some fellows get a lot of satisfaction out of playing six or seven sets of tennis in the hot sun.

People's Column

Editor Daily Republican:
Rushville, Ind.

My Dear Sir:

Some one was kind enough to send me a copy of your paper of the 11th inst. giving reports of Bishop Quayle's lectures and Mr. Adrian's and, also, my own. I thank you for it, and must commend your reporter for making as good off-hand report. But I beg your pardon for making a correction or two. I did not mean to say that the best farm in the mountains could be bought for $90, but that was the cost of the best farm in a settlement, on a mountain which I visited, and where I preached. While the country does not generally produce enough corn to supply its inhabitants (and corn is about the only grain they raise), they purchase flour etc., from the proceeds of the sale of timber, which is generally floated down the rivers.

The preacher who stole pigs was an exception rather than a rule. While most of the native preachers are uneducated, a number of them are earnest, godly men. Nearly all funerals, as I stated, are held during the fall months for several reasons, good roads, good weather and abundance of vegetables to feed the multitudes, which is the custom of the most hospitable Highlanders. The services at the funeral often begin on Friday and close on Sunday evening.

The object of my visit and lecture was to interest your people in these Highlanders, who are their neighbors, and doubtless many of them their kindred, a splendid people, long handicapped by their poverty and isolation. Tens of thousands of them served in the Federal Army, and there is no purer white blood on this continent than these Anglo-Saxon and Scotch-Irish Highlanders. They are most worthy of our help, and I hope your people will avail themselves of the privilege and the reward of those who help their poor neighbors.

I greatly enjoyed my visit to your beautiful city, and your splendid chautauqua. With assurance of my kindest regards and best wishes,

I am truly,
Your friend and servant,
EDWARD O. GUERRANT.

FINDS SON AT WORK
IN INDIANAPOLIS

Oscar Fowler, Prosperous Farmer,
Takes Boy Home, But he Says
he Won't Remain.

NOT ALLOWED TO GO CAMPING

A three-day search for Herschel Fowler, age sixteen, son of Oscar Fowler, a prosperous farmer, who lives near St. Paul, Ind., ended yesterday afternoon in the National Candy Company's plant, 201 South Meridian street, where the young man was found hard at work by bicycle men Gollnisch and Dickison, says the Indianapolis News. Fowler took his son back to the farm last night.

Anger because his mother and father refused to allow him to go camping with another boy caused Herschel to leave home late Sunday night. As usual, Sunday night Herschel took his horse and buggy and went for a drive. He found the other boy and they went to St. Paul, where they boarded an interurban for Indianapolis. The boy was not missed from home until Monday morning, and a search was started. The horse and buggy was found in St. Paul, and it was learned by Fowler that his son had bought a ticket for Indianapolis. From relatives the bicycle men learned that Herschel was working in the candy factory. Herschel was taken to central police station, where he said that if he was returned to his home he would run away again. Fowler said that the boy's mother was under a physician's care, due to worry over Herschel's disappearance.

HOW MOTOR TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

After Expenses Are Deducted, Balance Will be Used to Build
Good Roads in Indiana.

TAGS ARE BIGGEST EXPENSE

Many people throughout the state do not appear to understand how the new state automobile tax is to be distributed, and complaint against the new law is based upon a lack of information. For the benefit of those who do not fully understand the law we offer the following:

After deducting the expense of issuing tags, collecting the license fee and other items, one-third of the net fees collected is to be equally distributed to the ninety-two counties; the second and third is to be prorated to each county according to the number of automobile licenses paid for, and the last third is to be distributed to the counties in proportion to the number of miles of good roads in the county. All this fund is to go to the repair of the roads. It is estimated that about 75 per cent of the tax paid will be returned to each county.

DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY.

Fort Wayne News: Already "the Mulhall investigation has cost the nation over $1,000,000 and not an iota of evidence has been introduced showing that an "insidious lobby" is now operating in Washington. Mr. Mulhall was fired before the present congress convened. A million dollars has been spent by the democratic administration for hot air. There economy for you.

WHAT EVIDENCE SHOWS.

Decatur Herald: If the Mulhall confession is entitled to any credence, one point is much in evidence: The brewery interests furnished the funds and the votes to elect Thomas Marshall governor of Indiana in 1908.

MANY CHANGES
MADE IN RULES

Number of Regulations, Heretofore
Not in Effect, in Connection
With Parcel Post.

CONCESSIONS TO PATRONS

Permissible to Write on Outside of Bundle Many Things Not Allowed Before.

The new parcel post regulations went into effect yesterday. It is now possible to send by mail a parcel not exceeding seventy-two inches in length combined, and not exceeding twenty pounds in weight to the first and second zones, and eleven pounds to all other zones. The rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than four ounces is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, regardless of distance; and on matter in excess of four ounces in weight the rate will be by the pound. The local parcel post rate ranges from 3 cents a pound to 15 cents for twenty pounds for the first zone, fifty miles, 5 to 24 cents; second zone, fifty to 150 miles, 5 to 24 cents; third zone, 150 to 300 miles, 7 cents for one pound to 57 cents for eleven pounds; fourth zone, 300 to 600 miles, 8 to 68 cents; fifth zone, 600 to 1,000 miles, 9 to 79 cents; sixth zone, 1,000 to 1,400 miles, 10 cents to $1.; seventh zone, 1,400 to 1,800 miles, 11 cents to $1.11; eighth zone, all over 1,800 miles, 12 cents to $1.32.

Additional new regulations have been adopted as follows:

The rate of postage for seeds, bulbs, scions, etc., (for propagation) is 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

The local rate is applicable to parcels of the fourth-class intended for delivery at the office of mailing, including rural routes starting therefrom.

The rate to any point in the Hawaiian islands, Alaska, Canada, canal zone, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, Philippines and to the United States postal agency at Shanghai, China, (except for parcels weighing four ounces or less, on which the rate is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof) shall be 12 cents for the first pound and 12 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

Parcels for the canal zone, Mexico and Panama must be accompanied by customs declaration and are therefore mailable at the main office or classified station thereof.

Parcels for Canada and Cuba must not exceed four pounds six ounces in weight; those for Mexico and Panama can not exceed that weight unless sent by international parcel post.

In addition to the name and address of the sender, which is required, it is permissible to write or print on the covering of a parcel of fourth-class matter, or on a tag or label attached thereto, the occupation of the sender, and to indicate in a small space by means of marks, letters, numbers, names or other brief description, the character of the parcel, but ample space must be left for the full address and for the necessary postage stamps. Inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas," "Please do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," and the like, may be placed on the covering of the parcel in such manner as not to interfere with the address.

Printed matter relating to the article of merchandise it accompanies is regarded as descriptive of the article and is a permissible addition; an invoice showing in writing or printing the names and quantities of articles enclosed, together with inscriptions indicating "for purpose of description," the price, style, stock, number, etc., is a permissible inclosure; as are tailors' work tickets, partly in print and partly written and directions for taking medicines. Catalogues containing samples of merchandise permanently affixed thereto, occupying at least 20 per cent of the superficial area, are fourth class matter. Written matter not of the nature of the exceptions above cited will subject the parcel to the letter rate of postage.

Liquids, pastes, salves, sharp-pointed instruments, seeds, powders, pepper, snuff, flour, queen bees, fruit seeds, nursery stock, plants for propagation, candies, confectionery, soaps, fragile and perishable articles, butter, lard, fish, fresh meats, dressed fowls, vegetables, fruits, berries, eggs and articles of similar nature must be securely packed in accordance with the parcel post regulations, and parcels containing fragile articles must be labeled "fragile," those containing perishable articles marked "perishable," and those containing eggs labeled "eggs."

Hats in pasteboard boxes should be crated; canes, umbrellas and golf sticks should be fastened to stout boards for safe transmission; meats and meat food products and nursery stock should be mailed at the main office or at a classified station in order that it may be determined by more experienced employees whether the requirements of Section 24, parcel post regulations, are complied with.

Intoxicants, poisons, poisonous animals, inflammable materials, infernal machines or compositions which may kill or which may kill or injure another, or damage the mail, are unmailable.

A mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may be insured against loss in an amount not exceeding $25 on payment of a fee of 5 cents, and $50 on payment of a fee of 10 cents. A return receipt will be furnished if desired. Parcels for Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama, can not be insured but may be registered. Parcels for the Philippine Islands and the canal zone may be insured, but indemnity is allowed only when the loss occurs in the service of the United States.

In view of the provision for the insurance of fourth-class mail matter and the furnishing of receipts for such mail when insured, the necessity for registration is removed, and, therefore, fourth-class matter shall not be admitted to the registered mails (except for Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama).

The sender of a mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may have the price of the article and the charges thereon collected from the addressee on payment of a fee of 10 cents in postage stamps affixed, provided the amount to be collected does not exceed $100. Such a parcel will be insured against loss, without additional charge, in an amount equivalent to its actual value, but not to exceed $56.

The sender of a collect on delivery (C. O. D.) parcel will be given a receipt showing the office and date of mailing, the number of the parcel, and the amount due him.

A C. O. D. parcel will be accepted for mailing only at a money order office and when addressed to a money order office. The postmaster at the mailing office will be held responsible for postage required for the return of a parcel addressed to a non-money office.

The C. O. D. feature does not apply to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, the canal zone and the Philippine islands.

What Our Neighbors
Are Talking About

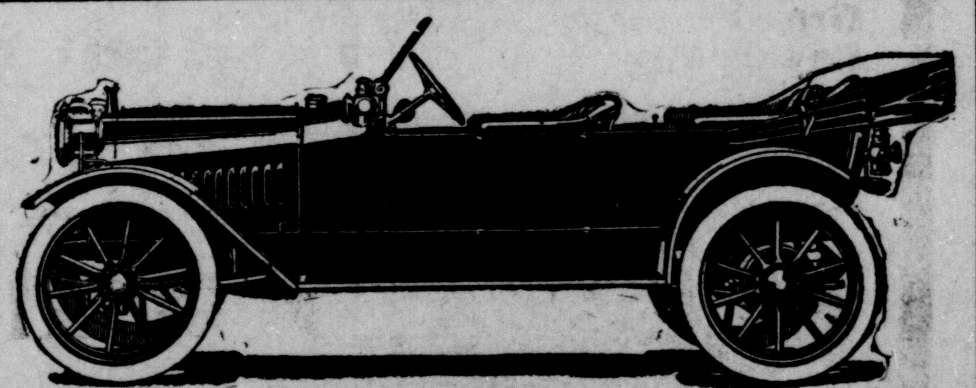

A GREAT FARCE.

(Decatur Herald.)

The majority of the senate lobby investigating committee, Democratic Senators Overman, Reed and Walsh, couldn't wait until the examination of witnesses in rebuttal of Lobbyist Mulhall had begun, but rushed into print in the New York World with a signed communication declaring that the "evidence" fully sustained the charges made in Mulhall's confessions. During Mulhall's evidence they carefully coached him, protected him from cross-examination, encouraged and abetted him in his perjuries, and then gave him the O. K. of their approval without hearing a single witness on the other side. It was the greatest farce of an investigation ever staged in congress, and having rendered their judgment further continuance of their "deliberations" is of course only a waste of time. Mr. Watson, who, for three weeks, waited for a chance to go on the witness stand, was told he would be heard Monday, but when Monday arrived, the Democratic majority of the committee had already made its report to the New York World. Mr. Watson, therefore, withdrew his request to be heard and announced his purpose to take the case to "another tribunal where the law will be impartially weighed."

COMPLAINED THAT MAN STARED AT HER

Mrs. Frank Etter Calls Police When Stranger Stands on Corner Across From Her House.

WAS WILBUR HERBERT, MILROY

Policeman John Wolters was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etter this morning on complaint of Mrs. Etters, who told the policeman that a strange man had been standing on the corner across the street from her house at various intervals the last three days and staring at her home. Policeman Wolters found Wilbur Herbert of Milroy, a poultry buyer for the Adams Produce company, standing on the corner across the street from the Etter home.

Herbert said he had meant no offense. He told the policeman that he had been here to attend the circus last night and that he had missed the Big Four south-bound train this morning. He said that he happened to stop there on his way back to the city because it was cool and shady. Mrs. Etter said he had been standing there over an hour. He was allowed to go.

PRICE OF MEAT MAY BE BOOSTED

Because Corn is Ruined Cattle Feed in Northwestern State Will Have to be Shipped.

DROUGHT IS THE SOLE CAUSE

No Rains Since Spring and Water Supply is Exhausted—Blades Brown From Corn Stalks.

Drought in Kansas, Oklahoma and other western states may force the price of beef up to 50 cents a pound. Corn in these states has been ruined and stock is suffering for water. There have been no rains there since early in the spring.

The Kansas river is almost dry, yet cities near it are drawing upon it for a water supply.

In the corn growing districts about Wichita many fields have been so scorched by the sun that the dried blades have blown from the corn stalks, and the corn scarcely can produce even fodder. The last heavy rain in the Wichita section was April 7.

In the district about Hutchinson, Kas., although there has been no good rain for weeks and the heat has been intense, crops and live stock have suffered little because of the sand strata underflow of water. Many orchards, markets gardens and alfalfa fields in the district are being irrigated from this underflow.

In the corn raising district about St. Joseph, Mo., farmers have abandoned hope saving the grain and are cutting the stalks for fodder.

The protracted drought has caused such a strain on the pumping capacity of the water works stations in Kansas City, that the superintendent of the water department, recommended that the city install a dual water system to increase the water supply.

Officials of the packing houses which manufacture much of the ice used there announced that the demands for ice had been so great recently that they were forced to reduce the amount supplied to each dealer. As a result some of the dealers have been unable to supply all their customers.

The meat packers, it is asserted, are preparing to boost the price of beef to almost prohibitive rates. Their excuse is the record-breaking drought in Kansas, Oklahoma and the southwest. The intention of the packers became apparent when a representative of one of the largest packing houses in the country predicted that the retail price of beef will go to unheard of prices this winter.

"Forty cents a pound for the choice cuts seems a certainty, 45 cents is a probability and even 50 cents a possibility before spring," declared a packer representative.

The corn killing drought has deprived the great cattle raising sections of feed for their stock. Fodder remains but the corn itself, necessary to fatten the steers for market, will have to be shipped into whole sections of country that are naturally grain exporters, at an expense that precludes the idea of any great profit making by the cattle raisers at anything near present prices.

REX BEACH ADVENTURE STORIES

North of Fifty- three

By REX BEACH

Copyright by McClure, Phillips & Co.

BIG GEORGE was drinking and the activities of the little arctic mining camp were paralyzed. Events invariably ceased their progress and marked time when George became excessive, and now nothing of public consequence stirred except the quicksilver, which was retreating fearfully into its bulb at the song of the wind which came racing over the lonesome, bitter, northward waste of tundra.

He held the center of the floor at the Northern club and proclaimed his modest virtues in a voice as pleasant as the cough of a bull wairus.

"Yes, me—little George! I did it. I've licked 'em all from Herschel island to Dutch Harbor, big uns and little uns. When they didn't suit I made 'em over. I'm the boss carpenter of the arctic, and I own this camp; don't I, Slim? Hey? Answer me!" he roared at the emaciated bearer of the title, whose attention seemed wandering from the inventory of George's startling traits toward a card game.

"Sure ye do," nervously smiled Slim, frightened out of a heart solo as he returned to his surroundings.

"Well, then, listen to what I'm saying. I'm the big chief of the village, and when I'm stimulated and happy them fellows I don't like hides out and lets me and nature operate things. Ain't that right?" He glared inquiringly at his friends.

Red, the proprietor, explained over the bar in a whisper to Captain, the new man from Dawson: "That's Big George, the whaler. He's a squaw man an' sort of a bully—see? When he's sober he's on the level strictly, an' he all likes him fine, but when he gets to fighting the pain killer he ain't altogether a gentleman. Will he fight—oh, will he fight? Say, he's there with chimes, he is! Why, Doc, Miller's made a grub stake rebuilding fellers that's had a lingering doubt cached away about that, an' now when he gets the booze up his nose them patched up guys ooze away an' hibernate till the gas dies out in him. Afterward he's sore on himself an' apologizes to everybody. Don't get into no trouble with him, 'cause he's two checks past the limit. They don't make 'em as bad as him any more. He busted the mold."

George turned and, spying the newcomer, approached, eying him with critical savagery. Captain saw a bearlike figure, clad cap-a-pie in native fashion. Reindeer pants, with the hair inside, clothed legs like rock pillars, while out of the loose squirrel parka a corded neck rose, brown and strong, above which darkly gleamed a rugged face seamed and scarred by the hate of arctic winters. He had kicked off his deerskin socks and stood barefooted on the cold and drafty floor, while the poison he had imbibed showed only in his heated face. Silently he extended a cracked and hardened hand, which closed like the armored claw of a crustacean and tightened on the crunching fingers of the other. Captain's expression remained unchanged, and, gradually slackening his grip, the sailor roughly inquired:

"Where'd you come from?" "Just got in from Dawson yesterday," politely responded the stranger. "Well, what're you going to do now you're here?" he demanded. "Stake some claims and go to prospecting, I guess. You see, I wanted to get in early before the rush next spring."

"Oh, I s'pose you're going to jump some of our ground, hey? Well, you ain't! We don't want no claim jumpers here," disagreeably continued the seaman. "We won't stand for it. This is my camp—see? I own it, and these is my little children." Then, as the other refused to debate with him, he resumed, groping for a new ground of attack.

"Say! I'll bet you're one of them eddicated dudes, too, ain't you? You talk like a feller that had been to college," and, as the other assented, he scornfully called to his friends, saying: "Look here, fellers! Pipe the jellyfish! I never see one of these here animals that was worth a cuss. They plays football and smokes cigarets at school; then when they're weaned they come off up here and jump our claims 'cause we can't write a location notice proper. They ain't no good. I guess I'll stop it."

Captain moved toward the door, but the whaler threw his bulky frame against it and scowlingly blocked the way.

"No, you don't. You ain't going to run away till I've had the next dance, Mister Eddication! Humph! I ain't begun to tell you yet what a useless little barnacle you are."

Red interferred, saying: "Look 'ere, George, this guy ain't no playmate of yours. We'll all have a jolt of this disturbance promoter and call it off."

Then, as the others approached, he winked at Captain and jerked his head slightly toward the door.

The latter, heeding the signal, started out, but George leaped after him and, seizing an arm, whirled him back, roaring:

"Well, of all the cussed impudence I ever see! You're too high toned to drink with us, are you? You don't get out of here now till you take a licking like a man."

He reached over his head and, grasping the hood of his fur shirt, with one movement he stripped it from him, exposing a massive naked body whose muscles swelled and knotted beneath a skin as clear as a maiden's, while a map of angry scars strayed across the heavy chest.

As the shirt sailed through the air Red lightly vaulted to the bar and, diving at George's naked middle, tackled beautifully, crying to Captain: "Get out quick! We'll hold him!"

Others rushed forward and grasped the bulky sailor, but Captain's voice replied: "I sort of like this place, and I guess I'll stay awhile. Turn him loose."

"Why, man, he'll kill ye," excitedly cried Slim. "Get out!"

The captive hurled his peacemakers from him and, shaking off the clinging arms, drove furiously at the insolent stranger.

In the cramped limits of the corner where he stood Captain was unable to avoid the big man, who swept him with a crash against the plank door at his back, grasping hungrily at his throat. As his shoulders struck, however, he dropped to his knees, and before the raging George could seize him he avoided a blow which would have strained the rivets of a strength tester and ducked under the other's arms, leaping to the cleared center of the floor.

Seldom had the big man's rush been avoided, and, whirling, he swung a boomlike arm at the agile stranger. Before it landed Captain stepped in to meet his adversary and, with the weight of his body behind the blow, drove a clinched and bony fist crashing into the other's face. The big head with its blazing shock of hair snapped backward, and the whaler dropped to his knees at the other's feet.

The drunken flush of victory swept over Captain as he stood above the swaying figure, then suddenly he felt the great bare arms close about his waist with a painful grip. He struck at the bleeding face below him and wrenched at the circling bands which wheezed the breath from his lungs, but the whaler squeezed him writhing to his breast and, rising unsteadily, wheeled across the door and in a shiver of broken glass fell crashing against the bar and to the floor.

As the struggling men writhed upon the planks the door opened at the hurried entrance of an excited group, which paused at the sight of the ruin; then, rushing forward, tore the men apart.

The panting Berserker strained at the arms about his glistening body, while Captain, with sobbing sighs, relieved his aching lungs and watched his enemy, who frothed at the interference.

"It was George's fault," explained Slim to the questions of the arrivals. "This feller tried to make a getaway, but George had to have his amusements."

A newcomer addressed the squaw man in a voice as cold as the wind. "Cut this out, George! This is a friend of mine. You're making this camp a regular hell for strangers, and now I'm going to tap your little snap. Cool off—see?"

Jones' reputation as a bad gun man went hand in hand with his name as a good gambler, and his scanty remarks invariably evoked attentive answers, so George explained: "I don't like him, Jones, and I was just making him over to look like a man. I'll do it yet, too," he flashed wrathfully at his quiet antagonist.

"Pears to me like he's took a hand in the remodeling himself," replied the gambler, "but if you're looking for something to do here's your chance. Windy Jim just drove in and says Barton and Kid Sullivan are adrift on the ice."

"What's that?" questioned eager voices, and, forgetting the recent trouble at the news, the crowd pressed forward anxiously.

"They was crossing the bay and got carried out by the offshore gale," explained Jones. "Windy was follering 'em when the ice ahead parted and begun moving out. He tried to yell to 'em, but they was too far away to hear in the storm. He managed to get back to the land and follered the shore ice around. He's over at Hunter's cabin now, most dead, face and hands froze pretty bad."

A torrent of questions followed and many suggestions as to the fate of the men.

"They'll freeze before they can get ashore," said one.

"The ice pack'll break up in this wind," added another, "and if they don't drown they'll freeze before the floe comes in close enough for them to land."

From the first announcement of his friends' peril Captain had been thinking rapidly. His body, sore from his long trip and aching from the hug of his recent encounter, cried woefully for rest, but his voice rose calm and clear. "We've got to get them off," he said. "Who will go with me? Three is enough."

The clamoring voices ceased, and the men wheeled at the sound, gazing incredulously at the speaker. "What! In this storm? You're crazy!" many voices said.

He gazed appealingly at the faces before him. Brave and adventurous men he knew them to be, jesting with death and tempered to perils in this land where hardship rises with the dawn, but they shook their ragged heads hopelessly.

"We must save them!" resumed Captain hotly. "Barton and I played as children together, and if there's not a man among you who's got the nerve to follow me I'll go alone, by heavens!"

In the silence of the room he pulled the cap about his ears and, tying it snugly under his chin, drew on his huge fur mittens. Then, with a scornful laugh, he turned toward the door.

He paused as his eye caught the swollen face of Big George. Blood had stiffened in the heavy creases of his face like rusted stringers in a ledge, while his mashed and discolored lips protruded thickly. His hair gleamed red, and the sweat had dried upon his naked shoulders, streaked with dirt and flecked with spots of blood, yet the battered features shone with the unconquered, fearless light of a rough, strong man.

Captain strode to him with outstretched hand. "You're a man," he said. "You've got the nerve, George, and you'll go with me, won't you?"

"What! Me?" questioned the sailor vaguely. His wondering glance left Captain and drifted round the circle of shamed and silent faces. Then he straightened stiffly and cried: "Will I go with you? Certainly! I'll go to— with you."

Ready hands harnessed the dogs, dragged from protected nooks where they sought cover from the storm which moaned and whistled round the low houses. Endless ragged folds of sleet whirled out of the north, then writhed and twisted past, vanishing into the gray veil which shrouded the landscape in a twilight gloom.

The fierce wind sank the cold into the aching flesh like a knife and stiffened the face to a whitening mask, while a fusillade of frozen ice particles beat against the eyeballs with blind fury.

As Captain emerged from his cabin, furred and hooded, he found a long train of crouching, whining animals harnessed and waiting, while muffled figures stocked the sled with robes and food and stimulants.

Big George approached through the whirling white, a great, squat figure, with fluttering squirrel tails blowing from his parka, and at his heels there trailed a figure skin clad and dainty.

"It's my wife," he explained briefly to Captain. "She won't let me go alone."

They gravely bade farewell to all, and the little crowd cheered lustily against the whine of the blizzard as, with cracking whip and hoarse shouts, they were wrapped in the cloudy winding sheet of snow.

CHESTNUT TREES FREE FROM BLIGHT IN ASIA.

Harvard Arboretum Points Way to Escape Scourge in This Country.

Salvation from the blight which is killing off American chestnut trees may come from Asia, according to the report of the Arnold arboretum of Harvard university. The arboretum authorities say they have found that the fatal disease which is now ravaging the American trees will not attack the species from Japan and China, and the obvious thing to do would be to import young chestnut trees from the orient to take the place of those that are dying here.

Several improved forms of the Japanese chestnut—which gives an especially large and desirable nut—have long been cultivated in the United States. But it does not grow well in New England and the east, the climate of the middle states seeming better to agree with it. China provides the most favorable tree for the eastern states.

"Unless the ravages of the disease can be checked," says the report, "it is to China that we must turn for a tree to replace the native chestnut in New England. Fortunately the common chestnut of northern and central China is a tree of good promise here. Raised in the arboretum from nuts found in Peking by Professor Sargent in 1903, the plants have grown without any check or injury and are now forming tall, straight stems and narrow heads. They flowered and produced a few fruits last year, and they are now coming into bloom again and look as if they would soon become productive."

WOULD FLY BY MAN POWER.

French Inventors Hope to Discard Motors in Airships.

French aviators and inventors continue to devote much time and thought to the construction of a machine which will permit man to fly entirely by his own exertion. No motor or other outside power enters into the making of these small machines, called "aviettes," the fundamental idea being to propel them by human force alone.

The results so far have not been strikingly successful, but high hopes are entertained of several new "aviettes" now under course of construction. The formula followed by these inventors was obtained by M. Magnan, director of a French technical school, who after years of study declares he has succeeded in translating the principles of bird flight into mechanics.

By applying his formula to the measurements of a bird M. Magnan obtained the following dimensions for an "aviette" of the monoplane variety, whose maximum weight, including the pilot, should not be more than 440 pounds: Wing surface, 32.67 square feet; weight of wings, 34.45 pounds; spread of wings, 16 feet; width of wings, 3.03 feet; length of tail, 4.38 feet; length over all, 10 feet.

PLOW PUT ABOVE PULPIT.

Too Many Ready to Preach, Says Vice President Marshall.

"Too many persons who see the sign 'P. C.' in the heavens think it means 'Preach Christ' when it means 'Plow Corn,'" said Vice President Thomas R. Marshall when addressing 20,000 persons who had gathered at Mooseheart, Ill., to attend the laying of the cornerstone for a great industrial school and home for orphaned children and the aged. The institution is to be erected by the Loyal Order of the Moose.

"Out of the superior educational advantages of today," the vice president said, "one unhappy corollary has developed. A vast army of persons whose labors would make for the industrial advancement of the nation have conceived themselves fitted for fancied nobler pursuits, and thus the progress they would have made in the work they are fitted for is lost."

WOMAN CREATOR, SAYS OLD TABLET

Ancient Record Gives New Version of Creation.

AT LEAST 4,000 YEARS OLD.

Hieroglyphics on Old Babylonian Tablet Just Deciphered Confirm the Story of Noah and the Ark and Other Events in Biblical History—A Sensation in Archaeology.

The Bible story of Noah and the flood is confirmed in many details by hieroglyphics written at least 4,000 years ago, perhaps even more, by a historian who lived in ancient Babylon, according to an announcement just made at Philadelphia by the University of Pennsylvania.

The writing on a tablet—an epic of great length purporting to reach back to the creation, was deciphered at the museum of the university by Dr. Arnold Poebel, the announcement says. The tablet, said to be the oldest ever rescued from oblivion, was dug up in Nippur several years ago by a museum expedition.

In strange symbols, so finely written that the entire poem is contained on a tablet seven inches square, the primitive historian harks back to the beginning of all things. Then there were seven gods, chief of which were Anu and Enlil, and a goddess, Nintu, the tablet says. Nintu it was who created mankind, whom she called "my creations."

Tells of the Creation.

Like the first chapter of Genesis, the Babylonian poem opens with a recital of the creation. Nintu, god mother of humans, is lamenting that the other god seems bent on their destruction.

"At that time Nintu wailed like a woman in travail," reads the translation. "The holy Ishtar wailed on account of the people. Enki, god of wisdom, held counsel with Anu, Enlil and Nintu over the proposed destruction of mankind. Ziusidda, high priest of Shuruppak, made obeisance to the gods and prayed, prostrating himself in humility."

The Ziusidda of the Babylonians, it is believed, was the Noah of the Hebrews. The tablet tells of Ziusidda's learning from the great god, Enki, that mankind was to be destroyed "by a rainstorm." Then comes a description of terrific wind and rains.

"After seven days the rainstorm had passed over the land and carried away the huge boat. Then the sun gods came forth shedding light over heaven and earth. Ziusidda opened the roof of his ship and the light of the sun god was let in." This version differs in respect to the duration of the flood described in Genesis. There it was said to last forty days.

Race Given Immortality.

When the water subsided Ziusidda prayed to the gods with a loud voice, the poem continues, and sacrificed an ox, a sheep and something with "a great horn." Through the intercession of Nintu the gods forgave the surviving human beings and gave them immortality which they did not possess before the flood.

Dr. Poebel has announced that he will make public later a literal translation of the epic. From other tablets found by the expedition, it would appear, the announcement says, that 46,000 years intervened between creation and the flood, although one epic writer asserts with painstaking accuracy that the exact time was 32,223 years, some months (exact number undecipherable) and eighteen days.

The particular tablet from which the story from which the flood was translated, the announcement says, may be as old as 5,000 years and is reasonably certain to be no more recent than the reign of Hammurabi, about 2100 B. C. It is regarded as the world's most ancient historical writing and is in a fairly good state of preservation.

WANT LUXURY IN BOX CARS.

Hoboes to Ask Commerce Commission to Make Travel Easier.

That freight cars had fallen behind in the onward march of progress was an assertion made at the opening session of the Itinerant Workers' association's annual convention in Cincinnati.

The hoboes said they would request the interstate commerce commission to have the railroads make improvements in the freight cars along lines established by the Pullman company and the companies operating the latest types of ocean liners. They explained that their travels could be made much easier if the railroad companies would hang hammocks under the freight cars; whereas, in this great day of progress, when every known comfort was being devised for the populace, the steel rods beneath the cars were as hard as ever.

Mormons Will Leave Mexico.

That the Mormon church practically has decided to abandon its Mexican colonization scheme, and devote its energies to the development of lands and settlements in Southern Alberta, Canada, was the announcement made by President Joseph Smith of Salt Lake City, while in Cardston, Alberta, recently. It has become known.

Isaac H. McMichael Astonishes Committee.

LETS THE CAT OUT OF BAG

The Man Whom Mulhall Had Mentioned as His "Principal News Source" Proves His Right to the Title in a Bit of Sensational Testimony Before Committee of House That Is Investigating the Lobby.

Washington, Aug. 16.—A former chief page of the house of representatives, Isaac H. McMichael, frequently mentioned by Colonel Mulhall as his "principal news source" on legislative matters, gave the house lobby committee a new sensation when he testified that Representative James T. McDermott of Illinois, during the pendency of a loan shark bill affecting pawnbrokers and "ten per centers," had been the paid agent of the pawnbrokers.

McMichael told of a number of instances where he had obtained articles of his own and of McDermott's from the pawnbrokers of Washington, and named several parties who had been in collusion with McDermott to prevent the passage of the anti-loan shark bill in its original form. He told of a conference in New York at which the agreement as to McDermott's activities against the bill was effected.

McMichael told of several instances in which pawned goods were removed from the clutches of the pawnbrokers without the payment of interest, and of other instances where they were returned without the payment of even the principal. He said that McDermott told him he had received all told more than $7,000 in the shakedown of the Washington pawnbrokers.

In the course of his testimony McMichael declared that Henry Neal, Speaker Clark's colored messenger, and Harry Parker, the messenger to Chairman Underwood, had been to his knowledge in the pay of Colonel Mulhall.

"McDermott would rather lie than eat," was one of the choice bits of testimony inserted by McMichael.

McMichael testified that although he had been employed at a compensation of $50 a month by Mulhall from 1909 to 1911, his work had consisted solely in collecting and mailing bills, reports and other congressional documents to various interested members of the N. A. M., and in furnishing the Washington office of James A. Emery with all legislative documents bearing on labor matters.

McMichael swore he served as confidential secretary or clerk to McDermott from the Sixtieth congress until within the last year, a period of nearly six years. He said that little if any compensation ever was allowed him by McDermott. The monthly check for $125—a congressman's clerk's compensation—was drawn to the order of McDermott, and except for $10 or $15 at a time, McDermott kept the money. McMichael also told of a scheme by which these secretarial clerks' salaries were hypothecated.

The story of the famous conference room in the capitol, where Mulhall alleges that numerous conferences were held between himself and other members of the N. A. M. and men prominent in public life, was described by McMichael as a sub-basement committee room. McMichael declared that keys to this room were furnished by McDermott to himself and Mulhall. Cross-questioned as to the uses of the "private conference room," McMichael said that its principal use so far as he could see was "to sleep off drinks in."

"We all use it for that purpose, and I have slept off many a one there," he added. McMichael also testified that Representative McDermott got part of the money that he, McMichael, collected from Colonel Mulhall. It is the belief here today that these disclosures will result in an effort to impeach McDermott and possibly an investigation by the grand jury.

EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT

Court Found No Ground For Holding Miss Krill on Murder Charge.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Miss Emma Krill, the trained nurse who was arrested at her home at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson on a charge of murdering Dr. Stanley L. Tron, with whom she had lived three years as his wife, was discharged from custody on her preliminary examination by Judge O'Connor in the city court. Twenty-five witnesses were sworn by the district attorney to prove his contention that Miss Krill poisoned Dr. Tron at the couple's apartment in this city June 22, because, as the state alleged, the physician planned to desert her, but Judge O'Connor at the conclusion of the testimony ruled that the evidence was insufficient and gave the young woman her liberty. This ends the case against the nurse and today she returned to the home of relatives at Cornwall.

MARTIN H. GLYNN

Declines Sulzer's Proposition to Test Their Cases in Court.

STATE CONTINUES TO HAVE TWO GOVERNORS

Both Sulzer and Glynn Are Sitting Tight.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Last night Martin H. Glynn sent to William Sulzer a letter in which he flatly refused to refer to the courts the question of who is the rightful governor of the state of New York. He said:

"I shall perform every function of the office of governor except insofar as I am restrained by your illegal actions or by physical force."

He also says that "It is beyond my power to barter away any of the functions attaching to the office in which I am placed by your impeachment." He contends that the court of appeals, to which Mr. Sulzer wants the issue submitted, has no right to interfere in impeachment proceedings.

Mr. Glynn's letter answers the question which everybody in Albany has been asking, what he was going to do about Mr. Sulzer's proposal that the lawyers for both sides get together and arrange a test case to be laid before extraordinary sessions of the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals.

There was no intimation from Mr. Glynn as to what his next step will be. Mr. Sulzer still has possession of the executive offices, the privy seal and documents necessary in the business of state.

Upheld the Unwritten Law.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—E. J. Duprey, a tailor, who shot and killed Henry Gronimus, a photographer, after Gronimus had been acquitted of the charge of wronging Duprey's fourteen-year-old daughter, was exonerated by a coroner's jury. Duprey's defense was the unwritten law.

ARCADIANS READY FOR PAN HANDLES

No New Faces in Line-up and Tompkins Will Play Third Base—

Two New Men Signed.

TO PLAY AGAINST HOOSIERS

There will be no new faces in the line-up of the Arcadians tomorrow when they face the fast Pan Handle team of Cincinnati, as was first thought. The management has signed Aug and Flick, both of Cincinnati, but they will not be used tomorrow. The management desired to give Nick Tompkins a trial at third base and he will play there tomorrow.

Flick is a third baseman and recently quit the Lily Brew team of Dayton as did Aug of the same team. The Lily Brews pay their players on a co-operative plan and the two men claimed they could not get what they were worth by doing this, and quit for this reason. Both will probably be in the game against Newcastle one week from Sunday and will be carried the rest of the season.

The Pan Handles have quite a reputation in Cincinnati and the Rushville team expects a hard battle. Avery will pitch and Jones will be in readiness to relieve him should he be needed. The Pan Handles have a star battery in Davis and Brill and the game should be close.

YOUNG FARMER'S WIFE SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Ed. Spillman Expires at Home Near Sandusky Following Short Illness.

PLANS FOR HOME ARE BROKEN

Plans for a future home were rudely broken into when Mrs. Ed Spillman, wife of a well known young farmer near Sandusky died Friday.

Mr. Spillman had rented a farm in another part of the country and had made arrangements to move onto it within a few months. Nearly two weeks ago Mrs. Spillman became ill. She was afflicted with a form of bowel trouble which quickly developed dangerous symptoms. A trained nurse was employed at Indianapolis and was in constant attendance at the bedside.

Mrs. Spillman became unconscious Sunday and remained so until the end, except at times when close friends called she appeared to have a rational moment.

A daughter seven years old and the husband survive. Funeral services will be held at Shiloh church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial at the Shiloh cemetery.

CHARIVARI COUPLE BEFORE MARRIAGE

Friends of Ruth Norman and Carl

Woodruff of Near Gwynneville

Are Misled.

THE WEDDING IS TO BE SOON

Several friends of Mr. Carl Woodruff, of Gwynneville, and Miss Ruth Norman, of Morristown, thinking that the couple had stolen away the fore part of the week and were secretly married, went to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Holbrook, near Gwynneville, last evening, where the couple were visiting and gave them an old-fashioned charivari, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

The friends were wrong in their belief that the couple are married, but they had the satisfaction of learning from them, however, that the nuptial event would not belong off. To show that he was a good sport Mr. Woodruff took his friends to Gwynneville, where he purchased cigars for his jolly bunch of friends, and the event proved a delightful one for all.

Takes Hold of Charged Guy Wire
Near I. & C. Power House—
Broken Insulator.

Ray Musmann, of Reedville, employed as a section man on the I. & C. traction line had a close call from death today when he came in contact with a charged guy wire near the power house in this city. A broken insulator probably caused a short circuit and charged the guy wire. Musmann took hold of the wire with both hands and was held tight. Men ran to the power house and the current was shut off. It is the opinion of men at the plant and those who saw the accident that Musmann did not get the full charge or else death would have been certain. The guy wire was charged from the current of 550 volts and not the high tension wires. He was carried to the freight house and soon revived. His right shoulder was slightly burned but his injuries will not prove serious.

Fairs will be held next week at Columbus, Connersville and Fairmount in Grant county. Rush county always gets most of the concessions, horses and exhibition stuff from Columbus, because Franklin offers very little competition. Practically all of the Connersville fair will move over to Rushville and much of the Fairmount attractions will be here. Lafayette has the only fair the same week, outside of Franklin.

Secretary King has already obtained a number of good concessions. A bull weighing 4,280 pounds, seventeen feet long and six feet and eight inches high will be on exhibition here. Secretary King has closed a contract with a big dog and pony show. Another attraction that has brought forth much favorable comment in this circuit is a motordom show. Two motorcycle riders do daring things in a large dome shaped affair.

Like all the other fairs that have been held this season in Eastern Indiana fair and racing circuits, the Elwood and Newcastle meeting this week encountered success. Good exhibits in all departments and a big racing card are delighting the fair visitors and the managements are pleased.

The greater part of the exhibit and the horses at Elwood and New castle will come to Rushville for the big fair to be held August 26 to 29 so that local people will be certain to see as good if not a better exhibition than at these two places. All fairs here are most encouraging and if no ill fortune befalls the association, a neat profit will result to insure a fair for next season.

Secretary W. L. King is hopeful of the best fair known to this country. He and his associates have been working faithfully and devotedly much of their time to the securing of live stock, poultry, agricultural products, and other features which will add to the fair. The season is well under way, and farm products are now at a stage where they will be ready for the public gaze. Earlier fairs have been confronted with scarcity of exhibits in the department.

All the starch that man and his white collar had in them was melted out by the humid atmosphere today. The day was the most discomfeting one of the summer even though the temperature was not within eight degrees of the high mark for the summer.

The worst feature is that no relief from the excessive heat is promised. The Indiana weather bureau says that there will be no change in temperature, except in northern Indiana, where showers and a drop in temperature are expected to come this evening. Central and southern Indiana will "enjoy" the same clear skies and hot weather.

Ninety-seven degrees was the high mark today. Occasionally there was a slight breeze, but there was nothing refreshing about it.

The largest proportion of suicide in European countries is to be found in Germany.

Where Shall We Go to Get It?

"Don't go! Come right here"
—say the merchants of this town in today's Daily Republican.

Wonderful how these live business men anticipate your needs.

Right now they are cleaning their August stocks and planning what they shall offer you at Christmas.

The steamers and trains are bringing in your fall attire—planned long ago.

But the important part in the merchant's fall and winter plans is to start with fresh new goods.

He must sell what he has right now. That's why August is a month of unusual retail sales. Better clear shelves and a temporary loss, than capital tied up in summer merchandise.

It pays to watch the advertising every day in the year, but it will never pay you better than right now in this month of August.

The time to buy is when the other fellow is anxious to sell and never are the merchants offering better inducements than now.

PRESIDENT PINS ON LIND'S

Confident His "Personal Representative" Will Find Way to Settle Problem.

HIS HOPES MEXICAN MISSION

Administration Anxious Most of All to Induce Huerta to Retire.

DESPITE disquieting reports to the effect that he is persona non grata with the Mexican government, with the arrival in Mexico City of John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson, the administration is steadily growing more hopeful that the Mexican tangle will be speedily solved and the possibility of armed intervention by the United States negated. On the other hand, it is freely predicted, unless the Huerta government sees the light and recognizes the fact that Mr. Lind's mission is purely one of peace, this attitude may result in the raising of the United States embargo on the exportation of arms into that republic. Many believe that this would be the quickest method of relieving a situation which hourly grows more trying. Colonel Eduardo Hay, of the Constitutionalist army, who has been in Washington urging the senate to remove this embargo, has reiterated frequently that it has been insisted that it should be made plain that Mr. Lind was acting entirely in an unofficial capacity in his mission to Mexico, but that he possesses most extraordinary powers in speaking for President Wilson is admitted.

The latter power is said to be the only cloak he wears which might prevent the Mexican government, should it resent in any particular Mr. Lind's activities in Mexico, from taking drastic action.

Complexities of New Policy.

It has been obvious for some time past that the new policy of the administration does not contemplate in any way a recognition of the Huerta government, and thus it becomes most complex by reason of the devious method employed to solve the Mexican problem. Up to this time the Huerta government has received no official recognition from the United States, which is now, in effect, asking that government to retire in the interest of permanent peace in Mexico. As previously stated, Mr. Lind has no official status and is not, in fact, a representative of the government of the United States, but of the president personally. So far as the Mexican government is concerned, it was recently stated by a member of the senate committee on foreign relations in Washington, Mr. Lind has no more standing in Mexico than any other American citizen except that conferred upon him by the president. This mingling of the official and unofficial necessarily imposes new responsibilities on all concerned which are not covered fully by law or treaty obligations. The policy of the administration in sending ex-Governor Lind to the Mexican capital in this quasi-official fashion, is a new one, so far as this country is concerned. The nearest approach to it was the mission of James Blount of Georgia, who was sent to Hawaii in 1892 by President Cleveland as "paramount" commissioner. The result of his trip was the restoration of the monarchy in those islands. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are believed by those in touch with affairs of state in Washington to have worked out the policy over the protests of advisers in the state department who are well versed in international law. That the policy is an experiment still seems to be the opinion of Washington.

Lind's Instructions.

Officials close to the administration have asserted since Mr. Lind's departure that Mr. Lind carried to Mexico a complete plan of action, including instructions to bring the friendly advances of President Wilson to the attention of President Huerta, if possible. In addition, Mr. Lind is said to be qualified by instructions to consult generally in Mexico with a view to establishing peace and a constitutional government at the same time, and these instructions have been interpreted to mean that he may consult the Constitutionalist leaders if need be. It is believed by Washington officials that the administration has acted with due regard to recent advice received from Mexico City as to the progress of internal efforts in Mexico to bring about a peaceful solution of the difficulties there.

Members of congress who recall Mr. Lind's distinguished services in the house a few years ago look upon his selection for the delicate Mexican mission with favor. They believe Mr. Lind will make good if any one can. At the same time, they point out that, as a member of congress, Mr. Lind was extremely independent at times, even breaking with his party when its decisions did not accord with his own. Some of his former colleagues go so far as to say that he was impulsive and not always tactful in his legislative methods, but all unite in praising the honesty and integrity and complete good faith with which he entered upon and conducted the legislative contest in which he played a prominent part.

First Task Difficult.

Mr. Lind's first task now will be to ascertain the exact attitude of General Huerta and his followers concerning mediation and incidentally to express the view that the resignation of Huerta, whose name is inseparably linked with the murder of Madero, would be wise and would make a truce between the federals and the rebels possible. The attitude of Huerta has already shown this to be a difficult if not impossible task.

If he succeeds Mr. Lind will then approach the other factions in an effort to bring on an armistice and a constitutional election under the supervision of a provisional president who would be satisfactory to both sides.

What the administration wants most of all is Huerta's resignation. If this can be brought about the atmosphere will be greatly clarified. From some sources the administration has been advised that Huerta could be induced to withdraw, although to counteract this there is published an official statement from the City of Mexico that Huerta will do nothing of the kind. It is believed by the administration that

Huerta's attitude, as described in the newspapers, is likely to prove very different from that which he will assume with the personal representative of the president of the United States, who will tell him in effect that the United States wants him to get out.

Many Problems Ahead.

If Mr. Lind's mission is a success and he gets all sides to agree to a peaceful election the problem which will then confront Mexico will still be difficult. It may be necessary even, say the experts, to revise the electoral laws of Mexico and to provide new machinery for elections. The existing law is obviously designed to give those in charge of the election complete control of the machinery. Under such circumstances the election would probably prove unsatisfactory and inconclusive, with the chances great that the defeated faction would take to the field again.

In the meantime Mr. Lind, as the personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico City, will have a freedom of action that will tend to give him greater powers than those possessed by an ambassador, who would be restricted by the customs and practices of diplomacy. He will act as adviser to Mr. O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires at the embassy in Mexico City, until such time as the Mexican situation is straightened out, when, if the administration consents to recognize the government that succeeds Huerta's, he will probably be named, should he wish it, as our next ambassador to the southern republic.

On the other hand, by reason of the fact that he carries with him no credentials, it is more than possible that his presence in the Mexican capital may lead to a situation even more Copyright by Zimmerman.

JOHN LIND.

that if it was lifted the Constitutionalist forces could bring Huerta to terms within ninety days, and the military experts at Washington are prone to agree with him.

Mr. Lind's Status.

Officially Mr. Lind, who was once governor of Minnesota and a representative in congress and later senator from that state, is described as "adviser to the embassy in the present situation." In fact he is a mediator in embryo. It is for him to impress upon the warring Mexican factions the necessity of peace and the urgent need of an immediate settlement of their differences.

Whether he can do it or not only the events of the near future will determine, and those officials in closest touch with the Mexican situation are inclined to be cautious in expressing an opinion.

Ex-Governor Lind is regarded as a strong man, capable of sizing up the situation, although it is recognized that he will find his mission exceedingly difficult, because of his unfamiliarity with Latin-Americans and the Spanish language. It has been also a matter of comment in official circles that Mr. Lind is not thoroughly familiar with past events in Mexico. He has not, as a citizen of Minnesota, been particularly interested in the Mexican situation, and he spent only three days in Washington conferring with the president and the secretary of state before leaving for Mexico City. Secretary Bryan, however, has great confidence in his ability to carry out his instructions.

The President's Policy.

It is understood in Washington that President Wilson is steadfast in his policy to end all thought of recognition of the Huerta government and all thought of intervention in Mexico. Positively the policy includes an attempt at mediation by Mr. Lind, with a view to bringing about a constitutional election of a president in Mexico; the possible retirement of Huerta and the appointment of a provisional president whom the United States can recognize as a prelude thereto, together with a suspension of hostilities pending the proposed election. The negative features of the policy of the administration were clearly indicated by the acceptance of Henry Lane Wilson's resignation as ambassador to Mexico, and the positive features are contained in the instructions given to Mr. Lind.

It seems certain that the new policy of the administration will not be acceptable to Mexico. Mr. Lind holds no office which is recognized between nations. President Huerta may decline to see him altogether, and it is plain that a grave responsibility rests upon his shoulders in speaking for the president direct among the factional representatives in Mexico. acute than the present one in the event of the Huerta government taking some action against him.

Mr. Lind's Career.

Ex-Governor Lind has had no experience in diplomacy and has not resided in a Latin-American country. He served in the house of representatives when William J. Bryan was a congressman, and his choice for the important office of mediator is credited to Mr. Bryan. During the time that he and Mr. Bryan were in congress, Mr. Lind was a Republican. He joined the Republican party in 1896 on account of his adherence to free silver views and became a follower of Mr. Bryan. He remained in the Democratic party in the Roosevelt-Parker campaign in 1904 and the Taft-Wilson campaign in 1912.

Mr. Lind was born in Sweden fifty-nine years ago, and came to the United States when he was fourteen years old. The Lind family settled in Minnesota, and the future governor was educated in the public schools there. He taught school, studied at the University of Minnesota for a year, and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He began the practice of law in New Ulm in 1877. He was receiver of the United States land office at Tracy, Minn., from 1881 to 1885, a member of congress from 1887 to 1893, a lieutenant in the Twelfth Minnesota volunteers during the Spanish-American war, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota in 1896, and was elected governor in 1898. He was defeated for re-election in 1900 and again served as a member of congress from 1903 to 1905. His home is in Minneapolis. Mr. Lind lost his left arm in an accident when he was a young man.

ORGANIZE GOOD BOYS' PATROL

Kansas City Gang to Fight For Birds and Animals.

A boy gang has been organized in Kansas City, Mo., to wage war on all boys who kill birds or are unkind to dogs, cats or other dumb animals. It is a juvenile humane society and has taken the name "The Good Boys' patrol." The boys have adopted a severe code of discipline to govern themselves, and the violation of the rules by a member means his instant dismissal from the organization.

"No boy who swears, lies, steals, smokes, hops wagons or acts foolish can belong to our gang," one of the boys said in telling about the new organization.

Although it is a boy gang of an unusual kind, the members have plenty of spirit. If they catch a boy who has killed a bird or in any other manner shows a lack of humane impulses they resolve into a court and try him. The sentence always imposes enough punishment to reform the offender.

BANKER MISSING SO IS THE CASH

People of Roseville N. J., On the Anxious Seat.

DIRECTORS DO NOT EXPLAIN

How the Missing Secretary-Treasurer of the Roseville Trust Company Got Away With Other People's Money to the Amount of $300,000 in Six Months is a Question Whichirate Depositors Want Explained.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 16.—To express their opinions of the directors in whom they had trusted and to devise means of protecting themselves, depositors of the Roseville Trust company, which was closed after examiners had discovered a shortage now estimated at more than $300,000, met. Their opinions reflected pretty much the sentiment of the Roseville neighborhood after a day's pondering of the proposition that Raymond E. Smith, the missing secretary and treasurer, was not the whole trust company and that something must be vitally wrong with a banking system under which everything could be wiped out in six months under the noses of the directors.

Charles C. Lurich, a member of the executive committee of the directors, counselled calmness and was promptly squelched. Depositors who had lost everything did not feel that way. Someone asked him if he wore the director who is rumored to have withdrawn $14,000 from the trust company a few days ago. Mr. Lurich denied emphatically that he was. He said that he did not know that there was anything wrong, and then they asked why, as a director, he didn't know.

A committee was named to represent the depositors and to engage counsel. Many depositors admitted that they were less hopeful of getting back their money than they are of fastening responsibility on someone besides the secretary and treasurer.

Raymond E. Smith has not been heard from. William Fairlie, vice president of the trust company, declared Smith indebted to the company for at least $305,000. The rumor persists that the examination found the bank full of worthless paper. Some of this paper bore the name of William A. Schwartz of East Orange, who committed suicide Tuesday night.

NO IMMEDIATE RELIEF

Is Offered the Suffering People of Kansas From Drouth.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 16.—Kansas today entered on the thirteenth consecutive day of extreme heat.

Kansas City has had no rain for twenty-three days.

Cottonwood Falls, Kan., has had no rain for forty-six days, and for thirty-three days the maximum temperature has been 100.

Topeka, on the coolest day since July 23, saw the mercury mount to 97. A dozen cities are obtaining water from outside sources.

The crop damage is estimated at $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in Kansas alone.

Nebraska, Missouri and Oklahoma reported temperatures ranging to 108 degrees.

The weather bureau predicts the spread of the heat wave and no immediate relief from drouth.

A Boy and a Gun.

New Albany, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Casper Verick was accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded by her nine-year-old son at her home, twelve miles west of this city. The boy was dragging a shotgun about the house, and as she started to take it from him the weapon was discharged, the shot striking her in the thighs and abdomen.

Maddock Heads I. R. E. A.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—The Indiana Republican Editorial association elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, William B. Maddock of Bloomfield; vice president, Fred A. Miller of South Bend; secretary, George B. Lockwood of Muncie, and treasurer, Harry J. Martin of Martinsville.

Details Are Lacking.

Constantinople, Aug. 16.—The Rev. Charles N. Holbrook of Lynn, Mass., missionary at Sivas, Asiatic Turkey, has been shot and killed at Sushohir. Details of the shooting are lacking.

Took Lovers' Quarrel Seriously.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 16.—Gordon Roy, aged seventeen, drank strychnine and died, following a quarrel with his nineteen-year-old bride. She fled from the house before Roy drank the poison.

An Accident, Says Coroner.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 16.—Coroner Farley has returned a verdict of accidental shooting in the case of Ed Bauman, who was found with his brains blown out.

He Was Curious to Know.

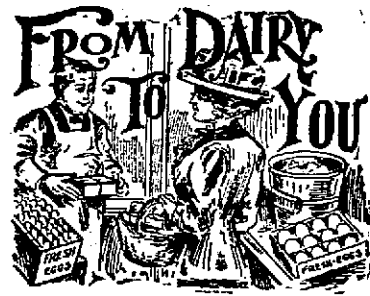

Unionville, Ind., Aug. 16.—After firing a fuse to a dynamite blast in a well Richard Ratliff "took a look" to see if it had gone out. It had not. He may lose one eye.

DEFENSE OUTLINES ITS CASE TO JURY

Diggs' Wife, Mother and Little Girl In Court.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—With testimony of Lola Norris and Miss Neil Barton, the Sacramento woman who was asked by Diggs to get Marsha Warrington to swear she paid her way to Reno and spent the nights there with Lola Norris, the government closed its case against Maury Diggs. The defense outlined its case, which rests mainly on the declaration that Diggs and Caminetti rushed off to Reno under the idea that they would escape prosecution by the juvenile court, and that the girls went with them willingly when the men told them they had to leave the state.

Both the mothers and wives of Diggs and Caminetti were present, as well as Diggs' little girl. They all took an eager interest in the proceedings, and the jury seemed much interested in them, particularly in the wives as they sat by their husbands.

THEN HE KILLED HIMSELF

Elwood Man Takes Own Life in Remorse For Slaying Boy.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mistaking the form of Charles Cain, eighteen years old, for that of James Collins, a man with whom he had been quarreling and whom he had threatened to kill, Charles Woolen, forty-six years old, shot and killed the boy at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Florence Reed, where Woolen was a boarder.

Realizing his mistake as the boy tottered to the door and fell lifeless from the porch, Woolen turned the gun upon himself, sending a bullet through his brain and dying instantly.

Woolen is said to have been angry when Collins visited the home and rushed upstairs, saying he would "fix" him. The boy hurried after him to prevent trouble and Woolen, not recognizing him in the darkness of the stairway, fired, the bullet piercing his heart. That young Cain had been prepared for trouble was shown when a gun was found in his pocket, after he was picked up from the ground where he had fallen. Woolen was a divorced man and had children living here. This is the first murder committed in Elwood in eight years.

On the Trail of Yeggs.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 16.—With the arrest of two men in a local hotel the South Bend police are believed to have found the trail of a gang of yeggmen who have been operating extensively in northern Indiana and southern Michigan. When taken into custody the men refused to give their names or places of residence. A large quantity of burglars' tools was found among their belongings.

CONSTABLE MET WITH FOUL PLAY

This Is the Belief of Burton's Relatives.

CONFIDENT THIS IS THE CASE

Without Any Known Motive Constable Richard Burton Disappeared From His Home in Anderson on July 25, Since Which Time Nothing Has Been Heard of Him and His Kinsfolk Believe He Has Been Slain.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 16.—Relatives of Constable Richard Burton, thirty-five years old, who disappeared from this city July 25, are firm in the belief that he has met foul play. The fact that Constable Albert Hawkins, who engaged in work much similar to that performed by Constable Burton, was murdered early last month, leads the immediate family of Burton to believe that some enemy who imagined he had been persecuted by Burton, has taken his life and probably secreted his body in some out-of-the-way place.

Mrs. Burton says she is confident this is the case for the reason that her husband was never known to stay away from home at night without first notifying her of his intended absence.

July 25 Burton had completed some work laid out by Justice of the Peace George Showers at Mounds Park and, after his return to the city, called up the justice of the peace by phone and asked if there was any further work to be done that day. Later Burton was joined by his wife uptown and they spent an hour visiting moving picture shows. When Mrs. Burton was ready to go home about 9 o'clock Burton told her he had some business to attend to and would return later. Mrs. Burton went home and that was the last time she saw her husband. It is her theory that he probably was caught by some person with whom he had had trouble in his official capacity and that he has been murdered.

CARRANZA NOT BEING GIVEN CONSIDERATION

No Communication Made to Constitutionalist Leader.

Washington, Aug. 16.—No communication has been made to General Carranza, the Constitutionalist leader, says Secretary of State Bryan, to determine if he would suspend hostilities against the federals pending a constitutional convention providing one could be made by John Lind, the president's personal representative. The president's policy for Mexico, he said, does not contemplate such communication.

This announcement was taken to mean that the president intends to deal with the Huerta government alone in his efforts to bring about peace, and as a result of Mr. Bryan's statement it is believed that the success or failure of Lind's mission will be decided by what he accomplishes at Mexico City. Administration officials profess to be well satisfied with the progress Lind is making in Mexico City. The announcement that Lind had made a second visit to Minister of Foreign Affairs Gamboa was noted with approval, confirming the belief that the representative is steadily plugging away at his effort to procure a friendly consideration of the suggestions from the United States which will be communicated to Huerta either by himself or the American charge. No indications were forthcoming as to when these suggestions would be formally delivered, however.

DARING SWIMMER DROWNED

John Vachie Lost Life in Cedar Lake on a Bet.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 16.—A bet that he could swim across Cedar lake and back without getting out of the water cost John Vachie, an expert swimmer, his life. Vachie had made the out trip, a mile and a half, and was completing the last stage of the three-mile swim when he threw up his hands and disappeared. He had refused to let any boat accompany him and was drowned.

Republican Mass Convention.

The Republican voters of the City of Rushville, Indiana, are hereby called to meet in mass convention at the assembly room in the court house on Thursday, August 21, 1913, at 7:30 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of selecting Precinct Committeemen for the various precincts of said City. The Family Reunion.

The season of family reunions is upon us. The family reunion is a most excellent thing. It contributes much to the making of history, in the illumination it can often afford the historian on points otherwise obscure. When the widely scattered descendants of a name get together and exchange reminiscences and recollections of events, there is apt to come out of the attrition something to add to the sum of general knowledge.

It may be wondered why the family reunion often comes at a season of the year when farm work is most pressing. October would seem to be the ideal month for such reunions. But this year, as usual, they began before the end of harvest. The Williams family reunion was held some weeks ago near Bethayres, Pa., and since then the Bergeys have also foregathered. The Moyers, of whom there are said to be more than 6000 in this country; the Klines, the Carrels, the McKinstries, and the Walters have also met and parted. But there is still to come what should be a very large meeting if all entitled to appear there should do so. It having been decided that the Longacres, Longnakers and Longneckers are all descended from one family root, and that the fact having been recognized in the invitations sent out, their meeting should be a large one, for many there are in this land who can take refuge under such a wide-spreading family tree.

These events are worthy of encouragement and a wider recognition than they have yet received. They foster a spirit of family pride, which, in spite of overmuch that is said and has been written to the contrary, is more often than preaching a stimulus to decent living. And there is nothing offensive, in the sense of aristocracy or attempted exclusiveness, about such meetings. They are simply the coming together of people having a common claim to an honorable name and their influence is certain to be for good. We hope to see the family reunion spirit grow, and the family reunion itself become more numerous, and at a season of the year when they can be more largely attended.

County Fair Crowds.

Once more the rolling year has brought us around to the cattle show season. It is customary for the Smart Alecks of the metropolitan press to rail at the rustic character of the people there assembled. The artist who covers "cattle show" fails of editorial commendation unless the farmers are depicted with bushy hair and superfluous whiskers, and the women are set forth with hoop skirts and floppy bonnets.

No doubt the artists who cover these events never get any nearer the scene than the golf clubs just outside the city limits. For their benefit we might inform them that you can see some pretty good styles at the modern county fair. Occasionally there are traces of whiskers, but no more so than you see on Broadway.

As for the women, how they have spruced up since fashion cuts began to circulate about the country. It takes a lot of presence to run a grange meeting, and country women oftentimes look a good deal smarter than the suffragette element you get in the women's clubs about the big cities.

As for the up-to-date country girl, there isn't a finer feminine specimen afoot. She has gone just far enough in the world to know what good clothes can do for her, and not far as to imagine that the paint brush is mightier than rosy human flesh and blood.

Editorialettes

Congressmen should not growl about the temperature. They should be accustomed to hot air.

Something to Worry About.

Out of thirty-five boy babies born at Williamstown, W. Va., since May 31, twenty-two have been named Woodrow.

It would appear that the next move would be to change the name of the town.

Fortunately for the summer girls, the bathing suits do not long remain the length that is shown in the dry goods store windows.

It may be all right to pray for rain, but it is very inconsiderate of the fellows who have a lawn to mow.

Some people would buy their ice out of town if it weren't for the temperature.

We were just wondering, that's all, how many of the women who criticize "September Morn" were ever guilty of wearing a shadow skirt.

It is not so much a question as to whether you can afford an automobile as to whether it is safe to give your creditors something tangible to levy on.

It's an old saying that the man who never takes a vacation takes one all the time, but fortunately it takes exceptions to make the rule.

A common school education, a set of dancing bows (from the hips) ability to do the turkey trot and a dress suit will get one into the exclusive set at the summer resorts.

While the newspapers are full of heat prostrations, some fellows get a lot of satisfaction out of playing six or seven sets of tennis in the hot sun.

People's Column

Editor Daily Republican: Rushville, Ind.

My Dear Sir:

Some one was kind enough to send me a copy of your paper of the 11th inst. giving reports of Bishop Quayle's lectures and Mr. Adrian's and, also, my own. I thank you for it, and must commend your reporter for making as good off-hand report. But I beg your pardon for making a correction or two. I did not mean to say that the best farm in the mountains could be bought for $300, but that was the cost of the best farm in a settlement, on a mountain which I visited, and where I preached. While the country does not generally produce enough corn to supply its inhabitants (and corn is about the only grain they raise), they purchase flour etc., from the proceeds of the sale of timber, which is generally floated down the rivers.

The preacher who stole pigs was an exception rather than a rule. While most of the native preachers are uneducated, a number of them are earnest, godly men. Nearly all funerals, as I stated, are held during the fall months for several reasons, good roads, good weather and abundance of vegetables to feed the multitudes, which is the custom of the most hospitable Highlanders. The services at the funeral often begin on Friday and close on Sunday evening.

The object of my visit and lecture was to interest your people in these Highlanders, who are their neighbors, and doubtless many of them their kindred, a splendid people, long handicapped by their poverty and isolation. Tens of thousands of them served in the Federal Army, and there is no purer white blood on this continent than these Anglo-Saxon and Scotch-Irish Highlanders. They are most worthy of our help, and I hope your people will avail themselves of the privilege and the reward of those who help their poor neighbors.

I greatly enjoyed my visit to your beautiful city, and your splendid chautauqua. With assurance of my kindest regards and best wishes,

I am truly, Your friend and servant, EDWARD O. GUERRANT.

FINDS SON AT WORK IN INDIANAPOLIS

Oscar Fowler, Prosperous Farmer, Takes Boy Home, But He Says he Won't Remain.

NOT ALLOWED TO GO CAMPING

A three-day search for Herschel Fowler, age sixteen, son of Oscar Fowler, a prosperous farmer, who lives near St. Paul, Ind., ended yesterday afternoon in the National Candy Company's plant, 201 South Meridian street, where the young man was found hard at work by bicycle men Gollnisch and Dickison, says the Indianapolis News. Fowler took his son back to the farm last night.

Anger because his mother and father refused to allow him to go camping with another boy caused Herschel to leave home late Sunday night. As usual, Sunday night Herschel took his horse and buggy and went for a drive. He found the other boy and they went to St. Paul, where they boarded an interurban for Indianapolis. The boy was not missed from home until Monday morning, and a search was started. The horse and buggy was found in St. Paul, and it was learned by Fowler that his son had bought a ticket for Indianapolis. From relatives the bicycle men learned that Herschel was working in the candy factory. Herschel was taken to central police station, where he said that if he was returned to his home he would run away again. Fowler said that the boy's mother was under a physician's care, due to worry over Herschel's disappearance.

HOW MOTOR TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

After Expenses Are Deducted, Balance Will be Used to Build Good Roads in Indiana.

TAGS ARE BIGGEST EXPENSE

Many people throughout the state do not appear to understand how the new state automobile tax is to be distributed, and complaint against the new law is based upon a lack of information. For the benefit of those who do not fully understand the law we offer the following:

After deducting the expense of issuing tags, collecting the license fee and other items, one-third of the net fees collected is to be equally distributed to the ninety-two counties; the second and third is to be prorated to each county according to the number of automobile licenses paid for, and the last third is to be distributed to the counties in proportion to the number of miles of good roads in the county. All this fund is to go to the repair of the roads. It is estimated that about 75 per cent of the tax paid will be returned to each county.

DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY.

Fort Wayne News: Already the Mulhall investigation has cost the nation over $1,000,000 and not an iota of evidence has been introduced showing that an "insidious lobby" is now operating in Washington. Mr. Mulhall was fired before the present congress convened. A million dollars has been spent by the democratic administration for hot air. There economy for you.

WHAT EVIDENCE SHOWS.

Decatur Herald: If the Mulhall confession is entitled to any credence, one point is much in evidence: The brewery interests furnished the funds and the votes to elect Thomas Marshall governor of Indiana in 1908.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN RULES

Number of Regulations, Heretofore Not in Effect, in Connection With Parcel Post.

CONCESSIONS TO PATRONS

Permissible to Write on Outside of Bundle Many Things Not Allowed Before.

The new parcel post regulations went into effect yesterday. It is now possible to send by mail a parcel not exceeding seventy-two inches in length combined, and not exceeding twenty pounds in weight to the first and second zones, and eleven pounds to all other zones. The rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than four ounces is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, regardless of distance; and on matter in excess of four ounces in weight the rate will be by the pound. The local parcel post rate ranges from 5 cents a pound to 15 cents for twenty pounds for the first zone, fifty miles, 5 to 24 cents; second zone, fifty to 150 miles, 5 to 24 cents; third zone, 150 to 300 miles, 7 cents for one pound to 57 cents for eleven pounds; fourth zone, 300 to 600 miles, 8 to 68 cents; fifth zone, 600 to 1,000 miles, 9 to 79 cents; sixth zone, 1,000 to 1,400 miles, 10 cents to $1.; seventh zone, 1,400 to 1,800 miles, 11 cents to $1.11; eighth zone, all over 1,800 miles, 12 cents to $1.32.

Additional new regulations have been adopted as follows:

The rate of postage for seeds, bulbs, scions, etc., (for propagation) is 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

The local rate is applicable to parcels of the fourth-class intended for delivery at the office of mailing, including rural routes starting therefrom.

The rate to any point in the Hawaiian islands, Alaska, Canada, canal zone, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, Philippines and to the United States postal agency at Shanghai, China, (except for parcels weighing four ounces or less, on which the rate is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof) shall be 12 cents for the first pound and 12 cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof. Parcels for the canal zone, Mexico and Panama must be accompanied by customs declaration and are therefore available at the main office or classified station thereof.

Parcels for Canada and Cuba must not exceed four pounds six ounces in weight; those for Mexico and Panama can not exceed that weight unless sent by international parcel post.

In addition to the name and address of the sender, which is required, it is permissible to write or print on the covering of a parcel of fourth-class matter, or on a tag or label attached thereto, the occupation of the sender, and to indicate in a small space by means of marks, letters, numbers, names or other brief description, the character of the parcel, but ample space must be left for the full address and for the necessary postage stamps. Inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas," "Please do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," and the like, may be placed on the covering of the parcel in such manner as not to interfere with the address.

Printed matter relating to the article of merchandise it accompanies is regarded as descriptive of the article and is a permissible addition; an invoice showing in writing or printing the names and quantities of articles enclosed, together with inscriptions indicating "for purpose of description," the price, style, stock, number, etc., is a permissible enclosure; as are tailors' work tickets, partly in print, and partly written and directions for taking medicines. Catalogues containing samples of merchandise permanently affixed thereto, occupying at least 20 per cent of the superficial area, are fourth class matter. Written matter not of the nature of the exceptions above cited will subject the parcel to the letter rate of postage.

Liquids, pastes, salves, sharp-pointed instruments, seeds, powders, pepper, snuff, flour, queen bees, fruit seeds, nursery stock, plants for propagation, candies, confectionery, soaps, fragile and perishable articles, butter, lard, fish, fresh meats, dressed fowls, vegetables, fruits, berries, eggs and articles of similar nature must be securely packed in accordance with the parcel post regulations, and parcels containing fragile articles must be labeled "fragile," those containing perishable articles marked "perishable," and those containing eggs labeled "eggs."

Hats in pasteboard boxes should be crated; canes, umbrellas and golf sticks should be fastened to stout boards for safe transmission; meats and meat food products and nursery stock should be mailed at the main office or at a classified station in order that it may be determined by more experienced employees whether the requirements of Section 24, parcel post regulations, are complied with.

Intoxicants, poisons, poisonous animals, inflammable materials, infernal machines or compositions which may kill or which may kill or injure another, or damage the mail, are unmailable.

A mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may be insured against loss in an amount not exceeding $25 on payment of a fee of 5 cents, and $50 on payment of a fee of 10 cents. A return receipt will be furnished if desired. Parcels for Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama, can not be insured but may be registered. Parcels for the Philippine Islands and the canal zone may be insured, but indemnity is allowed only when the loss occurs in the service of the United States.

In view of the provision for the insurance of fourth-class mail matter and the furnishing of receipts for such mail when insured, the necessity for registration is removed, and, therefore, fourth-class matter shall not be admitted to the registered mails (except for Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Panama).

The sender of a mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may have the price of the article and the charges thereon collected from the addressee on payment of a fee of 10 cents in postage stamps affixed, provided the amount to be collected does not exceed $100. Such a parcel will be insured against loss, without additional charge, in an amount equivalent to its actual value, but not to exceed $56.

The sender of a collect on delivery (C. O. D.) parcel will be given a receipt showing the office and date of mailing, the number of the parcel, and the amount due him.

A C. O. D. parcel will be accepted for mailing only at a money order office and when addressed to a money order office. The postmaster at the mailing office will be held responsible for postage required for the return of a parcel addressed to a non-money office.

The C. O. D. feature does not apply to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, the canal zone and the Philippine islands.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

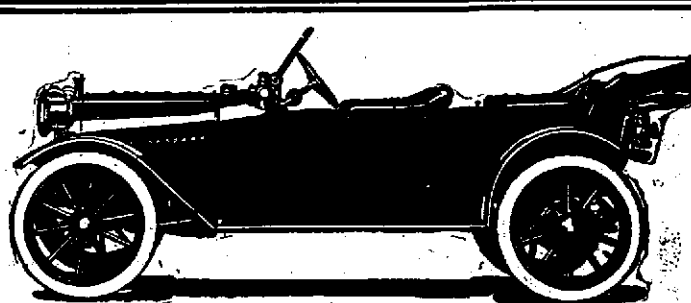

A GREAT FARCE.

(Decatur Herald.)

The majority of the senate lobby investigating committee, Democratic Senators Overman, Reed and Walsh, couldn't wait until the examination of witnesses in rebuttal of Lobbyist Mulhall had begun, but rushed into print in the New York World with a signed communication declaring that the "evidence" fully sustained the charges made in Mulhall's confessions. During Mulhall's evidence they carefully coached him, protected him from cross-examination, encouraged and abetted him in his perjuries, and then gave him the O. K. of their approval without hearing a single witness on the other side. It was the greatest farce of an investigation ever staged in congress, and having rendered their judgment further continuance of their "deliberations" is of course only a waste of time. Mr. Watson, who, for three weeks, waited for a chance to go on the witness stand, was told he would be heard Monday, but when Monday arrived, the Democratic majority of the committee had already made its report to the New York World. Mr. Watson, therefore, withdrew his request to be heard and announced his purpose to take the case to "another tribunal where the law will be impartially weighed."

COMPLAINED THAT MAN STARED AT HER

Mrs. Frank Etter Calls Police When Stranger Stands on Corner Across From Her House.

WAS WILBUR HERBERT, MILROY

Policeman John Wolters was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etter this morning on complaint of Mrs. Etter, who told the policeman that a strange man had been standing on the corner across the street from her house at various intervals the last three days and staring at her house. Policeman Wolters found Wilbur Herbert of Milroy, a poultry buyer for the Adams Produce company, standing on the corner across the street from the Etter home.

Herbert said he had meant no offense. He told the policeman that he had been here to attend the circus last night and that he had missed the Big Four south-bound train this morning. He said that he happened to stop there on his way back to the city because it was cool and shady. Mrs. Etter said he had been standing there over an hour. He was allowed to go.

PRICE OF MEAT MAY BE BOOSTED

Because Corn is Ruined Cattle Feed in Northwestern State Will Have to be Shipped.

DROUGHT IS THE SOLE CAUSE

No Rains Since Spring and Water Supply is Exhausted—Blades Brown From Corn Stalks.

Drought in Kansas, Oklahoma and other western states may force the price of beef up to 50 cents a pound. Corn in these states has been ruined and stock is suffering for water. There have been no rains there since early in the spring.

The Kansas river is almost dry, yet cities near it are drawing upon it for a water supply.

In the corn growing districts about Wichita many fields have been so scorched by the sun that the dried blades have blown from the corn stalks, and the corn scarcely can produce even fodder. The last heavy rain in the Wichita section was April 7.

In the district about Hutchinson, Kas., although there has been no good rain for weeks and the heat has been intense, crops and live stock have suffered little because of the sand strata underflow of water. Many orchards, markets gardens and alfalfa fields in the district are being irrigated from this underflow.

In the corn raising district about St. Joseph, Mo., farmers have abandoned hope saving the grain and are cutting the stalks for fodder.

The protracted drought has caused such a strain on the pumping capacity of the water works stations in Kansas City, that the superintendent of the water department, recommended that the city install a dual water system to increase the water supply.

Officials of the packing houses which manufacture much of the ice used there announced that the demands for ice had been so great recently that they were forced to reduce the amount supplied to each dealer. As a result some of the dealers have been unable to supply all their customers.

The meat packers, it is asserted, are preparing to boost the price of beef to almost prohibitive rates. Their excuse is the record-breaking drought in Kansas, Oklahoma and the southwest. The intention of the packers became apparent when a representative of one of the largest packing houses in the country predicted that the retail price of beef will go to unheard of prices this winter.

"Forty cents a pound for the choice cuts seems a certainty. 45 cents is a probability and even 50 cents a possibility before spring," declared a packer representative.

The corn killing drought has deprived the great cattle raising sections of feed for their stock. Fodder remains but the corn itself, necessary to fatten the steers for market, will have to be shipped into whole sections of country that are naturally grain exporters, at an expense that precludes the idea of any great profit making by the cattle raisers at anything near present prices.

REX BEACH ADVENTURE STORIES

North of Fifty- three

BIG GEORGE was drinking and the activities of the little arctic mining camp were paralyzed. Events invariably ceased their progress and marked time when George became excessive, and now nothing of public consequence stirred except the quicksilver, which was retreating fearfully into its bulb at the song of the wind which came racing over the lonesome, bitter, northward waste of tundra.

He held the center of the floor at the Northern club and proclaimed his modest virtues in a voice as pleasant as the cough of a bull walrus.

"Yes, me—little George! I did it. I've licked 'em all from Herschel Island to Dutch Harbor, big uns and little uns. When they didn't suit I made 'em over. I'm the boss carpenter of the arctic, and I own this camp; don't I, Slim? Hey? Answer me!" he roared at the enigmatic bearer of the title, whose attention seemed wandering from the inventory of George's startling traits toward a card game.

"Sure ye do," nervously smiled Slim, frightened out of a heart solo as he returned to his surroundings.

"Well, then, listen to what I'm saying. I'm the big chief of the village, and when I'm stimulated and happy them fellows I don't like hides out and lets me and nature operate things. Ain't that right?" He glared inquiringly at his friends.

Red, the proprietor, explained over the bar in a whisper to Captain, the new man from Dawson: "That's Big George, the whaler. He's a squaw man an' sort of a bully—see? When he's sober he's on the level strictly, an' we all like him fine, but when he gets to fighting the pain killer he ain't altogether a gentleman. Will he fight—oh, will he fight? Say, he's there with chimes, he is! Why, Doc. Miller's made a grub stake rebuilding fellows that's had a lingering doubt cached away about that, an' now when he gets the booze up his nose them patched up guys ooze away an' hibernate till the gas dies out in him. Afterward he's sore on himself an' apologizes to everybody. Don't get into no trouble with him, 'cause he's two checks past the limit. They don't make 'em as bad as him any more. He busted the mold."

George turned and, springing the newcomer, approached, eying him with critical disfavor.

Captain saw a bearlike figure, clad cap-a-pie in native fashion. Reindeer pants, with the hair inside, clothed legs like rock pillars, while out of the loose squirrel parka a corded neck rose, brown and strong, above which darkly gleamed a rugged face seamed and scarred by the hate of arctic winters. He had kicked off his deerskin socks and stood barefooted on the cold and drafty floor, while the poison he had imbibed showed only in his heated face. Silently he extended a cracked and hardened hand, which closed like the armored claw of a crustacean and tightened on the crumpled fingers of the other. Captain's expression remained unchanged, and, gradually slackening his grip, the sailor roughly inquired:

"Where'd you come from?" "Just got in from Dawson yesterday," politely responded the stranger.

"Well, what're you going to do now you're here?" he demanded.

"Strike some claims and go to prospecting, I guess. You see, I wanted to get in early before the rush next spring."

"Oh, I s'pose you're going to jump some of our ground, hey? Well, you ain't! We don't want no claim jumpers here," disagreeably continued the seaman. "We won't stand for it. This is my camp—see? I own it, and these is my little children." Then, as the other refused to debate with him, he resumed, groping for a new ground of attack.

"Say! I'll bet you're one of them educated dudes, too, ain't you? You talk like a feller that had been to college," and, as the other assented, he scornfully called to his friends, saying: "Look here, fellers! Pipe the jellyfish! I never see one of these here animals that was worth a cuss. They plays football and smokes cigarettes at school; then when they're weaned they come off up here and jump our claims 'cause we can't write a location notice proper. They ain't no good. I guess I'll stop it."

Captain moved toward the door, but the whaler threw his bulky frame against it and scowlingly blocked the way.

"No, you don't. You ain't going to run away till I've had the next dance, Mister Education! Humph! I ain't begun to tell you yet what a useless little barnacle you are."

Red interferred, saying: "Look 'ere, George, this guy ain't no playmate of yours. We'll all have a jolt of this disturbance promoter and call it off."

Then, as the others approached, he winked at Captain and jerked his head slightly toward the door.

The latter, heeding the signal, started out, but George leaped after him, and, seizing an arm, whirled him back, roaring:

"Well, of all the cussed impudence I ever see! You're too high toned to drink with us, are you? You don't get out of here now till you take a licking like a man."

He reached over his head and, grasping the hood of his fur shirt, with one movement he stripped it from him, exposing a massive naked body whose muscles swelled and knotted beneath a skin as clear as a maiden's, while a map of angry scars strayed across the heavy chest.

As the shirt sailed through the air Red lightly vaulted to the bar and, diving at George's naked middle, tackled beautifully, crying to Captain: "Get out quick! We'll hold him!"

Others rushed forward and grasped the bulky sailor, but Captain's voice replied: "I sort of like this place, and I guess I'll stay awhile. Turn him loose."

"Why, man, he'll kill ye," excitedly cried Slim. "Get out!"

The captive buried his peace-makers from him and, shaking off the clinging arms, drove furiously at the insolent stranger.

In the cramped limits of the corner where he stood Captain was unable to avoid the big man, who swept him with a crash against the plank door at his back, grasping hungrily at his throat. As his shoulders struck, however, he dropped to his knees, and before the raging George could seize him he avoided a blow which would have strained the rivets of a strength tester and ducked under the other's arms, leaping to the cleared center of the floor.

Seldom had the big man's rush been avoided, and, whirling, he swung a boomlike arm at the agile stranger. Before it landed Captain stepped in to meet his adversary and, with the weight of his body behind the blow, drove a clinched and bony fist crashing into the other's face. The big head with its blazing shock of hair snapped backward, and the whaler dropped to his knees at the other's feet.

The drunken flush of victory swept over Captain as he stood above the swaying figure, then suddenly he felt the great bare arms close about his waist with a painful grip. He struck at the bleeding face below him and wrenched at the circling hands which wheezed the breath from his lungs, but the whaler squeezed him writhing to his breast and, rising unsteadily, wheeled across the floor and in a shiver of broken glass fell crashing against the bar and to the floor.

As the struggling men writhed upon the planks the door opened at the hurried entrance of an excited group, which paused at the sight of the ruin; then, rushing forward, tore the men apart.

The panting Berserker strained at the arms about his glistening body, while Captain, with sobbing sighs, relieved his aching lungs and watched his enemy, who frothed at the interference.

"It was George's fault," explained Slim to the questions of the arrivals. "This feller tried to make a getaway, but George had to have his amusement."

A newcomer addressed the squaw man in a voice as cold as the wind "Cut this out, George! This is a friend of mine. You're making this camp a regular hell for strangers, and now I'm going to tap your little snop. Cool off—see?"

Jones' reputation as a bad gun man went hand in hand with his name as a good gambler, and his scanty remarks invariably evoked attentive answers, so George explained: "I don't like him, Jones, and I was jus' making him over to look like a man. I'll do it yet, too," he flashed wrathfully at his quiet antagonist.

"Pears to me like he's took a hand in the remodeling himself," replied the gambler, "but if you're looking for something to do here's your chance. Windy Jim just drove in and says Barton and Kid Sullivan are adrift on the ice."

"What's that?" questioned eager voices, and, forgetting the recent trouble at the news, the crowd pressed forward anxiously.

"They was crossing the bay and got carried out by the offshore gale," explained Jones. "Windy was following 'em when the ice ahead parted and begun moving out. He tried to yell to 'em, but they was too far away to hear in the storm. He managed to get back to the land and followed the shore ice around. He's over at Hunter's cabin now, most dead, face and hands froze pretty bad."

A torrent of questions followed and many suggestions as to the fate of the men.

"They'll freeze before they can get ashore," said one.

"The ice pack'll break up in this wind," added another, "and if they don't drown they'll freeze before the ice comes in close enough for them to land."

From the first announcement of his friends' peril Captain had been thinking rapidly. His body, sore from his long trip and aching from the hug of his recent encounter, cried woefully for rest, but his voice rose calm and clear. "We've got to get them off," he said. "Who will go with me? Three is enough."

The clamoring voices ceased, and the men wheeled at the sound, gazing incredulously at the speaker. "What! In this storm? You're crazy!" many voices said.

He gazed appealingly at the faces before him. Brave and adventurous men he knew them to be, jesting with death and tempered to perils in this land where hardship rises with the dawn, but they shook their ragged heads hopelessly.

"We must save them!" resumed Captain hotly. "Barton and I played as children together, and if there's not a man among you who's got the nerve to follow me I'll go alone, by heavens!"

In the silence of the room he pulled the cap about his ears and, trying it snugly under his chin, drew on his huge fur mittens. Then, with a scornful laugh, he turned toward the door.

He paused as his eye caught the swollen face of Big George. Blood had stiffened in the heavy creases of his face like rusted stringers in a ledge, while his mashed and discolored lips protruded thickly. His hair gleamed red, and the sweat had dried upon his naked shoulders, streaked with dirt and flecked with spots of blood, yet the battered features shone with the unconquered, fearless light of a rough, strong man.

Captain strode to him with outstretched hand. "You're a man," he said. "You've got the nerve, George, and you'll go with me, won't you?"

"What! Me?" questioned the sailor vaguely. His wondering glance left Captain and drifted round the circle of shamed and silent faces. Then he straightened stiffly and cried: "Will I go with you? Certainly! I'll go to — with you."

Ready hands harnessed the dogs, dragged from protected nooks where they sought cover from the storm which moaned and whistled round the houses. Endless ragged folds of sleet whirled out of the north, then writhed and twisted past, vanishing into the gray veil which shrouded the landscape in a twilight gloom.

The fierce wind sank the cold into the aching flesh like a knife and stiffened the face to a whitening mask, while a fusillade of frozen ice particles beat against the eyeballs with blinding fury.

As Captain emerged from his cabin, furred and hooded, he found a long train of crouching, whining animals harnessed and waiting, while muffled figures stocked the sled with robes and food and stimulants.

Big George approached through the whirling white, a great, squat figure, with duttering squirrel tails blowing from his parka, and at his heels trailed a figure skin clad and dainty.

"It's my wife," he explained briefly to Captain. "She won't let me go alone."

They gravely bade farewell to all, and the little crowd cheered lustily against the whine of the blizzard as, with cracking whip and hoarse shouts, they were wrapped in the cloudy winding sheet of snow.

CHESTNUT TREES FREE FROM BLIGHT IN ASIA.

Harvard Arboretum Points Way to Escape Scourge in This Country.

Salvation from the blight which is killing off American chestnut trees may come from Asia, according to the report of the Arnold arboretum of Harvard university. The arboretum authorities say they have found that the fatal disease which is now ravaging the American trees will not attack the species from Japan and China, and the obvious thing to do would be to import young chestnut trees from the orient to take the place of those that are dying here.

Several improved forms of the Japanese chestnut—which gives an especially large and desirable nut—have long been cultivated in the United States. But it does not grow well in New England and the east, the climate of the middle states seeming better to agree with it. China provides the most favorable tree for the eastern states.

"Unless the ravages of the disease can be checked," says the report, "it is to China that we must turn for a tree to replace the native chestnut in New England. Fortunately the common chestnut of northern and central China is a tree of good promise here. Raised in the arboretum from nuts found in Peking by Professor Sargent in 1903, the plants have grown without any check or injury and are now forming tall, straight stems and narrow heads. They flowered and produced a few fruits last year, and they are now coming into bloom again and look as if they would soon become productive."

WOULD FLY BY MAN POWER.

French Inventors Hope to Discard Motors in Airships.

French aviators and inventors continue to devote much time and thought to the construction of a machine which will permit man to fly entirely by his own exertion. No motor or other outside power enters into the making of these small machines, called "aviettes," the fundamental idea being to propel them by human force alone.

The results so far have not been strikingly successful, but high hopes are entertained of several new "aviettes" now under course of construction. The formula followed by these inventors was obtained by M. Magnan, director of a French technical school, who after years of study declares he has succeeded in translating the principles of bird flight into mechanics.

By applying his formula to the measurements of a bird M. Magnan obtained the following dimensions for an "aviette" of the monoplane variety, whose maximum weight, including the pilot, should not be more than 440 pounds: Wing surface, 32.67 square feet; weight of wings, 34.45 pounds; spread of wings, 16 feet; width of wings, 3.63 feet; length of tail, 4.38 feet; length over all, 10 feet.

PLOW PUT ABOVE PULPIT.

Too Many Ready to Preach, Says Vice President Marshall.

"Too many persons who see the sign 'P. C.' in the heavens think it means 'Preach Christ' when it means 'Plow Corn,'" said Vice President Thomas R. Marshall when addressing 20,000 persons who had gathered at Mooseheart, Ill., to attend the laying of the cornerstone for a great industrial school and home for orphaned children and the aged. The institution is to be erected by the Loyal Order of the Moose.

"Out of the superior educational advantages of today," the vice president said, "one unhappy corollary has developed. A vast army of persons whose labors would make for the industrial advancement of the nation have conceived themselves fitted for fancied nobler pursuits, and thus the progress they would have made in the work they are fitted for is lost."

WOMAN CREATOR, SAYS OLD TABLET

Ancient Record Gives New Version of Creation.

AT LEAST 4,000 YEARS OLD.

Hieroglyphics on Old Babylonian Tablet Just Deciphered Confirm the Story of Noah and the Ark and Other Events in Biblical History—A Sensation in Archaeology.

The Bible story of Noah and the flood is confirmed in many details by hieroglyphics written at least 4,000 years ago, perhaps even more, by a historian who lived in ancient Babylon, according to an announcement just made at Philadelphia by the University of Pennsylvania.

The writing on a tablet—an epic of great length purporting to reach back to the creation, was deciphered at the museum of the university by Dr. Arnold Poebel, the announcement says. The tablet, said to be the oldest ever rescued from oblivion, was dug up in Nippur several years ago by a museum expedition.

In strange symbols, so finely written that the entire poem is contained on a tablet seven inches square, the primitive historian harks back to the beginning of all things. Then there were seven gods, chief of which were Anu and Enlil, and a goddess, Nintu, the tablet says. Nintu it was who created mankind, whom she called "my creations."

Tells of the Creation.

Like the first chapter of Genesis, the Babylonian poem opens with a recital of the creation. Nintu, god mother of humans, is lamenting that the other god seems bent on their destruction.

"At that time Nintu wailed like a woman in travail," reads the translation. "The holy Ishtar wailed on account of the people. Enki, god of wisdom, held counsel with Anu, Enlil and Nintu over the proposed destruction of mankind. Ziusgadda, high priest of Shuruppak, made obeisance to the gods and prayed, prostrating himself in humility."

The Ziusgadda of the Babylonians, it is believed, was the Noah of the Hebrews. The tablet tells of Ziusgadda's learning from the great god, Enki, that mankind was to be destroyed "by a rainstorm." Then comes a description of terrific wind and rains.

"After seven days the rainstorm had passed over the land and carried away the huge boat. Then the sun gods came forth shedding light over heaven and earth. Ziusgadda opened the roof of his ship and the light of the sun god was let in." This version differs in respect to the duration of the flood described in Genesis. There it was said to last forty days.

Race Given Immortality.

When the water subsided Ziusgadda prayed to the gods with a loud voice, the poem continues, and sacrificed an ox, a sheep and something with "a great horn." Through the intercession of Nintu the gods forgave the surviving human beings and gave them immortality which they did not possess before the flood.

Dr. Poebel has announced that he will make public later a literal translation of the epic. From other tablets found by the expedition, it would appear, the announcement says, that 46,000 years intervened between creation and the flood, although one epic writer asserts with painstaking accuracy that the exact time was 32,223 years, some months (exact number undecipherable) and eighteen days.

The particular tablet from which the story from which the flood was translated, the announcement says, may be as old as 5,000 years and is reasonably certain to be no more recent than the reign of Hammurabi, about 2100 B. C. It is regarded as the world's most ancient historical writing and is in a fairly good state of preservation.

WANT LUXURY IN BOX CARS.

Hoboes to Ask Commerce Commission to Make Travel Easier.

That freight cars had fallen behind in the onward march of progress was an assertion made at the opening session of the Itinerant Workers' association's annual convention in Cincinnati.

The hoboes said they would request the interstate commerce commission to have the railroads make improvements in the freight cars along lines established by the Pullman company and the companies operating the latest types of ocean liners. They explained that their travels could be made much easier if the railroad companies would hang hammocks under the freight cars; whereas, in this great day of progress, when every known comfort was being devised for the populace, the steel rods beneath the cars were as hard as ever.

Mormons Will Leave Mexico.

That the Mormon church practically has decided to abandon its Mexican colonization scheme, and devote its energies to the development of lands and settlements in Southern Alberta, Canada, was the announcement made by President Joseph Smith of Salt Lake City, while in Cardston, Alberta, recently, it has become known.

Isaac H. McMichael Astonishes Committee.

LETS THE CAT OUT OF BAG
The Man Whom Mulhall Had Mentioned as His "Principal News Source" Proves His Right to the Title in a Bit of Sensational Testimony Before Committee of House That is Investigating the Lobby.

Washington, Aug. 16.—A former chief page of the house of representatives, Isaac H. McMichael, frequently mentioned by Colonel Mulhall as his "principal news source" on legislative matters, gave the house lobby committee a new sensation when he testified that Representative James T. McDermott of Illinois, during the pendency of a loan shark bill affecting pawnbrokers and "ten per centers," had been the paid agent of the pawnbrokers.

McMichael told of a number of instances where he had obtained articles of his own and of McDermott's from the pawnbrokers of Washington, and named several parties who had been in collusion with McDermott to prevent the passage of the anti-loan shark bill in its original form. He told of a conference in New York at which the agreement as to McDermott's activities against the bill was effected.

McMichael told of several instances in which pawned goods were removed from the clutches of the pawnbrokers without the payment of interest, and of other instances where they were returned without the payment of even the principal. He said that McDermott told him he had received all told more than $7,000 in the shakedown of the Washington pawnbrokers.

In the course of his testimony McMichael declared that Henry Neal, Speaker Clark's colored messenger, and Harry Parker, the messenger to Chairman Underwood, had been to his knowledge in the pay of Colonel Mulhall.

McMichael would rather lie than eat," was one of the choice bits of testimony inserted by McMichael.

McMichael testified that although he had been employed at a compensation of $50 a month by Mulhall from 1909 to 1911, his work had consisted solely in collecting and mailing bills, reports and other congressional documents to various interested members of the N. A. M., and in furnishing the Washington office of James A. Emery with all legislative documents bearing on labor matters.

McMichael swore he served as confidential secretary or clerk to McDermott from the Sixtieth congress until within the last year, a period of nearly six years. He said that little if any compensation ever was allowed him by McDermott. The monthly check for $125—a congressman's clerk's compensation—was drawn to the order of McDermott, and except for $10 or $15 at a time, McDermott kept the money. McMichael also told of a scheme by which these secretarial clerks' salaries were hypothecated.

The story of the famous conference room in the capitol, where Mulhall alleges that numerous conferences were held between himself and other members of the N. A. M. and men prominent in public life, was described by McMichael as a sub-basement committee room. McMichael declared that keys to this room were furnished by McDermott to himself and Mulhall. Cross-questioned as to the uses of the "private conference room," McMichael said that its principal use so far as he could see was "to sleep off drunks in."

"We all use it for that purpose, and I have slept off many a one there," he added.

McMichael also testified that Representative McDermott got part of the money that he, McMichael, collected from Colonel Mulhall. It is the belief here today that these disclosures will result in an effort to impeach McDermott and possibly an investigation by the grand jury.

EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT

Court Found No Ground For Holding Miss Krill on Murder Charge.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Miss Emma Krill, the trained nurse who was arrested at her home at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson on a charge of murdering Dr. Stanley L. Tron, with whom she had lived three years as his wife, was discharged from custody on her preliminary examination by Judge O'Connor in the city court. Twenty-five witnesses were sworn by the district attorney to prove his contention that Miss Krill poisoned Dr. Tron at the couple's apartment in this city June 22, because, as the state alleged, the physician planned to desert her, but Judge O'Connor at the conclusion of the testimony ruled that the evidence was insufficient and gave the young woman her liberty. This ends the case against the nurse and today she returned to the home of relatives at Cornwall.

Three Killed by Train.

MARTIN H. GLYNN
Declines Sulzer's Proposition to Test Their Cases in Court.

STATE CONTINUES TO HAVE TWO GOVERNORS

Both Sulzer and Glynn Are Sitting Tight.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Last night Martin H. Glynn sent to William Sulzer a letter in which he flatly refused to refer to the courts the question of who is the rightful governor of the state of New York. He said:

"I shall perform every function of the office of governor except insofar as I am restrained by your illegal actions or by physical force."

He also says that "It is beyond my power to barter away any of the functions attaching to the office in which I am placed by your impeachment." He contends that the court of appeals, to which Mr. Sulzer wants the issue submitted, has no right to interfere in impeachment proceedings.

Mr. Glynn's letter answers the question which everybody in Albany has been asking, what he was going to do about Mr. Sulzer's proposal that the lawyers for both sides get together and arrange a test case to be laid before extraordinary sessions of the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals.

There was no intimation from Mr. Glynn as to what his next step will be. Mr. Sulzer still has possession of the executive offices, the privy seal and documents necessary in the business of state.

Upheld the Unwritten Law.
Chicago, Aug. 16.—E. J. Duprey, a tailor, who shot and killed Henry Gronimus, a photographer, after Gronimus had been acquitted of the charge of wronging Duprey's fourteen-year-old daughter, was exonerated by a coroner's jury. Duprey's defense was the unwritten law.

ARCADIANS READY FOR PAN HANDLES

No New Faces in Line-up and Tompkins Will Play Third Base—
 Two New Men Signed.

TO PLAY AGAINST HOOSIERS

There will be no new faces in the line-up of the Arcadians tomorrow when they face the fast Pan Handle team of Cincinnati, as was first thought. The management has signed Aug and Flick, both of Cincinnati, but they will not be used tomorrow. The management desired to give Nick Tompkins a trial at third base and he will play there tomorrow.

Flick is a third baseman and recently quit the Lily Brew team of Dayton as did Aug of the same team. The Lily Brews pay their players on a co-operative plan and the two men claimed they could not get what they were worth by doing this, and quit for this reason. Both will probably be in the game against Newcastle one week from Sunday and will be carried the rest of the season.

The Pan Handles have quite a reputation in Cincinnati and the Rushville team expects a hard battle. Avery will pitch and Jones will be in readiness to relieve him should he be needed. The Pan Handles have a star battery in Davis and Brill and the game should be close.

YOUNG FARMER'S WIFE SUCSUMBS

Mrs. Ed. Spillman Expires at Home Near Sandusky Following Short Illness.

PLANS FOR HOME ARE BROKEN

Plans for a future home were rudely broken into when Mrs. Ed Spillman, wife of a well known young farmer near Sandusky died Friday.

Mr. Spillman had rented a farm in another part of the country and had made arrangements to move onto it within a few months. Nearly two weeks ago Mrs. Spillman became ill. She was afflicted with a form of bowel trouble which quickly developed dangerous symptoms. A trained nurse was employed at Indianapolis and was in constant attendance at the bedside.

Mrs. Spillman became unconscious Sunday and remained so until the end, except at times when close friends called she appeared to have a rational moment.

A daughter seven years old and the husband survive. Funeral services will be held at Shiloh church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial at the Shiloh cemetery.

ments of agriculture and horticulture, but the local association will meet with no such difficulty.

Indiana horses are now quite prominent in the racing events of the middle west. The big fields that characterized the early meeting in Ohio and Illinois have divided so that the trotters and pacers are to be found in all parts of the country. The Rushville track is one of the best in the state and drivers are anxious to race over it so that big entry lists may be expected.

CHARIVARI COUPLE BEFORE MARRIAGE

Friends of Ruth Norman and Carl Woodruff of Near Gwynneville Are Misled.

THE WEDDING IS TO BE SOON

Several friends of Mr. Carl Woodruff, of Gwynneville, and Miss Ruth Norman, of Morristown, thinking that the couple had stolen away the fore part of the week and were secretly married, went to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Holbrook, near Gwynneville, last evening, where the couple were visiting and gave them an old-fashioned charivari, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

The friends were wrong in their belief that the couple are married, but they had the satisfaction of learning from them, however, that the nuptial event would not belong off. To show that he was a good sport Mr. Woodruff took his friends to Gwynneville, where he purchased cigars for his jolly bunch of friends, and the event proved a delightful one for all.

In China women carry their children from baskets that hang from a bar that crosses the mother's shoulders.
